Major Admits
Heading Leaflet
Drop Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Pedro Diaz Lanz, former head of Fidel Castro's air force, was the man who dropped leaflets from a plane over Havana, it was learned from the FBI Friday night.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was asked whether it had made any inquiry in connection with complaints by the Cuban government that the plane which flew over Cuba had come from U.S. territory.

An FBI spokesman said Diaz Lanz was questioned in Miami Friday afternoon.

"He admitted to the FBI that he headed the flight," the spokesman said.

Diaz Lanz, the FBI said, told investigators he flew the plane and dropped the leaflets.

"He was the instigator of the whole idea," the FBI spokesman said.

The FBI quizzing of Lanz was made in connection with an investigation by various agencies of the United States government to see whether there had been any violation of federal law.

There was no immediate indication whether any legal action would be taken against Diaz Lanz.

He was branded a traitor by Castro after he quit as air force chief and fled to Florida.

Diaz Lanz has repeatedly described Castro as a Communist.

Diaz Lanz said at Miami during the day that he had definite information Fidel Castro "will order some bombings in different places so he can blame the United States."

The former Cuban air force chief made that statement in an interview with newsman Dick Loh of Miami television station WCKT.

"I have definite information from several people that have come from Cuba that Fidel Castro will order some bombings in different places so he can appear as the victim and he can blame the United States again," Diaz Lanz declared.

Castro said in a lengthy television broadcast which ended early Friday that the United States allowed planes to fly from its territory to bomb Havana.

There is some question as to whether bombs actually fell from planes which showered Havana Wednesday with anti-Castro leaflets bearing the signature of Diaz Lanz.

Diaz Lanz himself would make

Indian Guards Shot During Border Battle

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Red China's troops killed 17 Indian border policemen in a new strike in a disputed border area in north Kashmir, Prime Minister Nehru's government charged Friday night.

Three other Indians were reported wounded and an undetermined number missing from a patrol surprised by sudden, heavy fire Wednesday 40 miles or more inside India's traditional frontier.

A stronger Chinese force, entrenched on a hilltop, supplemented its rifle fire with grenades and mortar shells, but the Indians fought back, the government said. It was to be overwhelmed. A few survivors have returned to their base camp.

There was no estimate of the Chinese casualties.

PROTESTS

The Indian and Chinese government exchanged protests. While the Indian government was suppressing the story to assemble facts for a note to Peiping, the Chinese fired a note here Thursday charging the Indians with responsibility.

The action was by far the fiercest in a series of border clashes that reached crisis stage two months ago, with each side accusing the other.

It came just three weeks after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, visiting China's Mao Tse-tung in Peiping, declared world differences must be settled through negotiations. "We must do everything possible to preclude war," he said.

It followed by four weeks a letter from Nehru to Red China's Premier Chou En-lai calling for a Chinese withdrawal from Indian territory to open the way for negotiations on specific differences about the frontier. Chou has never answered that letter.

Wednesday's battle took place in Kashmir's Ladakh province, a

OF MONROE MAN

Further Inquiry
Ordered In Death

SHREVEPORT (Special) — A further probe was ordered yesterday in the death of a Monroe man who claimed before he died three Shreveport policemen beat him after arresting him on a drunk charge.

Dr. C. S. Boone, chief deputy coroner questioned policemen and the dead man's drinking companion, who swore he witnessed the beating in the police station.

Jack Caples, 28, died Oct. 19 in Confederate Memorial Medical Center, more than two weeks after his arrest Oct. 3.

Dr. Boone said he could not sign the death certificate until it is determined whether the death was accidental or homicide.

DENIALS

The three policemen accused of administering the beating steadfastly denied they had struck Caples. They are Sgt. W. C. Greene, and patrolmen Odus Caldwell and E. B. Rickey.

Horace Bryan, 37, of Monroe, repeated to Dr. Boone an earlier statement that he saw Caples beaten about the body and knocked out before both were placed in the jail's drunk tank.

The chief deputy coroner said he wanted to question other prisoners who were in the drunk tank at the time and bondsman A. J. Levasseur who bailed the pair out the next day.

He said it may be Monday or Wednesday before the witnesses can be rounded up for another hearing.

Caples and Bryan were arrested Oct. 3 about 6 p.m. at 1843 Tulane after a resident there complained the two were drunk and disturbing the peace. They were released the next day and returned to Monroe.

During the two-week interval between the arrest and his death, Caples twice was in the E. A. Con-

Negotiations
On Steel Set
Again Today

Time Settled
After Chaos

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry and the United Steel-workers agreed Friday night to resume negotiations Saturday in the 101-day-old steel strike.

The time was set after some momentary confusion. The USW earlier had said it would resume talks, then withdrew the announcement for a short time until all details could be co-ordinated.

The union originally proposed to the industry that negotiations be resumed Monday. A short time later the industry replied that it preferred to get the peace talks started Saturday morning.

The union agreed to the industry time but asked that negotiations be started at 2 p. m. Saturday instead of in the morning.

The union's acceptance telegram was signed by Vice President Howard Hague.

EARLIER

Earlier the USW's public relations office issued a statement saying President David J. McDonald had accepted the industry time for getting peace talks started. But that statement was quickly withdrawn.

In withdrawing the statement, a union spokesman explained it had been issued without the knowledge of McDonald. There was no explanation why Vice President Hague signed the acceptance telegram instead of McDonald.

The situation was clarified in a matter of minutes.

The union's invitation was directed to 96 strike-idled steel companies. The industry reply came from the four-man negotiating team that represents 12 big steel firms.

McDonald said the union invitations were sent to the 96 companies in order to comply with a federal court order directing renewed peace efforts.

All of the 96 companies invited here by telegram were named defendants, along with the union, in a Taft-Hartley injunction process.

Van Doren Tells Different Story

NEW YORK (AP) — Big-money winner Charles Van Doren went before Manhattan's district attorney Friday and changed his year-old story about his television quiz show activities. The discrepancies he admitted were not revealed.

In setting the record straight, Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said, Van Doren admitted his original statement "is not correct."

As for Friday's conference, arranged by Van Doren presumably on the advice of his lawyer, Hogan added: "I think he gave truthful answers."

Van Doren's original statement was kept secret. But it was presumed from his public statements at the time that he denied any involvement in rigged TV quiz shows during his $129,000 winning spree on NBC's "Twenty-One."

It was after his 1958 conference in Hogan's office that Van Doren complained: "It's silly and distressing to think that people don't have more faith in quiz shows."

Hogan said other quiz show contestants have asked to correct statements originally given to his office when the rigging scandal first broke in 1955. But he wouldn't identify them or say how many there were.

Hogan also would not say whether he intended to bring Van Doren and the others back before a grand jury, for a review of their original testimony in the light of their amended statements.

Van Doren, himself, declined to discuss the matter with newsmen after emerging from Hogan's office.

May Ask
As Starter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans to ask Congress for more money to speed development of a super - space rocket were announced Friday by officials of the civilian space agency and the Pentagon.

They didn't specify how much more would be sought, but it was indicated the request, as a starter, might total 30 million dollars.

Congress already has allocated 104 million dollars for Project Saturn, work toward an eight-cluster rocket engine that would generate 1 1/2 million pounds of thrust. This is about twice as powerful as the rocket the Soviet Union used to shoot its satellite beyond the moon.

The Saturn is conceived as the first stage of what eventually would be at least a three-stage rocket. Such a huge rocket would be used to boost a manned vehicle into space.

NO WORD

There was no firm word on how much the Saturn project would be accelerated by the proposed funds.

But Richard C. Horner, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said completion of the full three-stage rocket is a four- or five-year job.

Plans for the Saturn stepup were disclosed by Horner and Dr. Herbert York, the Defense Department's director of research and engineering.

They did so while telling newsmen what is being done in line with President Eisenhower's decision last Wednesday to shift the Army Ballistics Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., to NASA control. The transfer is subject to possible congressional veto.

Shifted with the agency and its 2,300 scientists and technicians will be the Saturn project on which they have been working.

The officials said the Saturn work will continue to center at Huntsville and that the Army team under German-born Dr. Werner von Braun, is expected to carry it forward.

Horner said he conferred Thursday with Van Braun and all senior officials of the agency, and that he got no impression there would be any mass transfers or resignations as a result of the changeover.

Horner told newsmen NASA's budget obviously would be bigger because it was taking on the Army's agency and its staff.

To begin with, he said, NASA would ask for perhaps another 30

Family Happy At Provisions In New Jersey

BASKING RIDGE, N. J. (AP) — A two year odyssey which started in Borneo has ended in this northern New Jersey community for a Dutch family of seven.

Danker Brink, 36, and his family arrived from the Netherlands Thursday and moved into a rented home entirely furnished by the congregation of the Basking Ridge Presbyterian church.

Three hours after their plane landed at Idlewild Airport in New York, the Brinks joined the Rev. William H. Felmeth in a short thanksgiving prayer at the church.

Then they drove to the brown-shinkled 10-room house, set among tall spruce and maple trees off Rt. 202.

"I cannot find words yet to thank anybody," Brink said. "It is not easy to explain. I had heard so much about America. I speak better English when I am not so excited."

Gambling Clique Raid Target In Albany Area

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Flying squads of state police swooped down on bookmaking, policy and lottery shops in 26 upstate communities Friday and claimed they "broke the back" of a gambling syndicate that spread into several states.

The State Investigation Commission reported 135 arrests. Commission Chairman John W. Ryan Jr. called the precision-timed raids "a powerful blow against big-time, organized illegal gambling" in New York.

State Police Supt. Francis S. McGarvey said the various gambling operations "had been all bound together."

Approximately 200 troopers participated in the raids. They struck at 3 p. m. at the height of the weekend rush to place illegal bets on major football games and horse races.

RAIDED

Candy stores, beauty shops, newsrooms, apartments and private homes across the state from Buffalo to Troy were raided.

SHREVEPORT (Special) — The Louisiana State Fair opened yesterday with a "spirit of enthusiasm by everybody." A crowd of 32,000 flocked to the fairgrounds to get a glimpse of what's in store for the rest of the 54th annual exposition.

A record attendance, sparked by an expected 24,000 persons at the Louisiana Tech-Northwestern State football game tonight is being predicted by fair officials.

It was the first time in more than 25 years that the State Fair held an opening day on a Friday rather than a Saturday.

Last year's opening day attendance approached the 100,000 mark, just 1,416 shy.

May Ask 30 Million As Starter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans to ask Congress for more money to speed development of a super-space rocket were announced Friday by officials of the civilian space agency and the Pentagon.

They didn't specify how much more would be sought, but it was indicated the request, as a starter, might total 30 million dollars.

Congress already has allocated 104 million dollars for Project Saturn, work toward an eight-cluster rocket engine that would generate 1 1/2 million pounds of thrust. This is about twice as powerful as the rocket the Soviet Union used to shoot its satellite beyond the moon.

The Saturn is conceived as the first stage of what eventually would be at least a three-stage rocket. Such a huge rocket would be used to boost a manned vehicle into space.

NO WORD

There was no firm word on how much the Saturn project would be accelerated by the proposed funds.

But Richard C. Horner, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said completion of the full three-stage rocket is a four- or five-year job.

Plans for the Saturn stepup were disclosed by Horner and Dr. Herbert York, the Defense Department's director of research and engineering.

They did so while telling newsmen what is being done in line with President Eisenhower's decision last Wednesday to shift the Army Ballistics Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., to NASA control. The transfer is subject to possible congressional veto.

Shifted with the agency and its 2,300 scientists and technicians will be the Saturn project on which they have been working.

The officials said the Saturn work will continue to center at Huntsville and that the Army team, under German-born Dr. Werner von Braun, is expected to carry it forward.

Horner said he conferred Thursday with Von Braun and all senior officials of the agency, and that he got no impression there would be any mass transfers or resignations as a result of the changeover.

Horner told newsmen NASA's budget obviously would be bigger because it was taking on the Army's agency and its staff.

To begin with, he said, NASA would ask for perhaps another 30 million.

Plane Crashes In Louisiana, Four Rescued

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A KB50 tanker crashed and burned about 12 miles northwest of here Friday night after the nine-man crew parachuted.

Rescuers picked up four crewmen soon after the crash and searched for the others.

None of the rescued was hurt. The plane, en route from George Air Force Base, Calif., was coming in for a final approach for a landing at its home base, England Air Force Base.

Witnesses said one propeller was feathered and another was afire when the plane crashed and exploded on a farm. The plane, attached to the 622nd refueling squadron, was not carrying a load of fuel.

Those rescued were Capt. John R. Barr, the aircraft commander; 1st Lt. Daniel M. Banks, pilot; 1st Lt. Donald S. Gay, navigator; and T.Sgt. Walter D. Young, flight engineer.

Van Doren Tells Different Story

He told them: "I've got nothing to say."

His lawyer, Carl J. Rubino, added: "It would be unfair to a congressional committee at this time. I'm sorry fellows, but that's all we can say."

The 33-year-old Van Doren, an English instructor at Columbia University, has a date with a House subcommittee probing fixed quiz shows. It is scheduled to resume hearings Nov. 2 into shows which provided contestants in advance with questions or answers. One of the tainted shows named by the subcommittee was "Twenty One" in which Van Doren received notoriety as a big winner during 14 weeks in 1956-57. From the show, Van Doren stepped into a $50,000 a-year post as an NBC consultant. But he was suspended from this post Oct. 8 when he failed to answer a subcommittee invitation to testify in Washington. Later, he was subpoenaed for his scheduled Nov. 2 appearance.

Hogan's office began its grand jury investigation of the TV rigging scandal in the summer of 1958. The results never were made public. Van Doren made a statement on Oct. 10, 1958, to Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Stone and later went before the grand jury.

Reporters tried to find out if Van Doren's statement Friday was also intended to correct his grand jury testimony. At first Hogan said it did not concern his grand jury testimony. But later he said the interview "had to do with his two appearances before a grand jury that for nine months had been investigating the rigged programs."

Asked if Van Doren might be called back before the grand jury, Hogan said at least not in advance of his Washington appearance and added: "I'll have to make that determination and decide if it would serve any useful purpose."

Hogan continued of Van Doren: "He's been through a harrowing experience. In my judgment, since this happened, he's had a mental struggle."

Of Friday's appearance, Hogan said: "I don't know what was in his mind. I can tell you he came here, presumably following the advice of his attorney Mr. Rubino. He gave a statement to Mr. Stone and he talked to me."

"There may be any number of other persons who may wish to correct statements made in this office and upon which I will have to reflect before taking any further action."

The Basking Ridge church agreed to sponsor the Brinks. A canvass of the congregation brought in $1,500 to meet $150-a-month rent payments, insurance and medical costs until Brink can find a job.

A shower was held last Sunday and the house was stocked with necessities ranging from $400 worth of canned goods to an electric corn popper, and the tank for the oil heater was filled.

Thursday, when the Brinks walked in, they found the beds made, a fire burning in the hearth and the table set for seven.

million dollars. This, he explained, was the amount Congress cut below authorized limits for NASA this fiscal year. For civilian space agency operations this bookkeeping year, ending next June 30, Congress allowed $500,575,000.

Without saying so directly, Horner appeared to challenge published reports that the Saturn program, while under Pentagon direction, had been slowed and deprived of money.

The space agency executive said that so far as he knew, the schedule long has been for the first static—that is, tied down—test of the Saturn early next year, with the first full flight test of the first-stage booster about one year later.

York said some thought had been given to scrapping the Saturn cluster of eight smaller rockets in favor of an attempt to cluster four Titan intercontinental ballistic missile engines.

But the Defense Department concluded the Saturn concept should be pursued, York said.

Horner said NASA's own big space booster project—called Nova—eventually would be placed under control of the Army team now working on Saturn. York said the Nova—planned to produce about the same thrust as Saturn—is much further from development.

Saying there is "no clear military need" for a rocket of such power as the Saturn, York added the armed services could not foreclose the possibility that such a need might arise in the future.

York told reporters that if the Air Force, now responsible for all big military missiles, should require a power plant some five times more powerful than it now uses, it could and would get them from NASA.

Both NASA and Pentagon officials said transfer of the Ballistic Missile Agency from Army to civilian control would not affect Army work on its own shorter-range missiles. Among these is the Pershing, a solid-fuel weapon that would have a range greater than 400 miles.

Specialists now working on the Pershing will stay with it until the job is finished, Horner and York agreed.

ceedings brought by the government Tuesday.

McDonald's announcement came after brief meetings of the union's 171-man Wage Policy Committee and 33-member Executive Board. Policy committee members were sent home.

The union president declined comment when asked if the union was prepared to make a new offer to end the strike of 500,000 Steelworkers.

He was noncommittal when asked whether he would meet with the industry's regular negotiating team headed by Cooper.

Joint negotiations collapsed in Washington last week.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia told the union and steel industry Thursday to get back to the bargaining table. Both said they would do so.

The appellate court issued the directive in delaying enforcement of a Taft-Hartley injunction ordering the Steelworkers back to the mills.

A ruling on the union's appeal seeking to overthrow the injunction is expected sometime early next week.

The Philadelphia court must decide if the strike constitutes a national crisis and if that section of the Taft-Hartley Act permitting a ban on strikes for 90 days is constitutional.

Judge Herbert P. Sorg of U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh issued the injunction Wednesday. But the strike continued as he union immediately carried its fight to the appellate court and won an indefinite stay.

At issue in the strike are union demands for wage and fringe benefit improvements, and industry demands for changes in local plant work rules to effect production economies.

Steelworkers earned an average of $3.11 an hour before the strike.

a stolen car across a state line, it was explained.

During the Monday night episode, a Bienville parish resident reported that a 30.06 caliber rifle and ammunition were stolen from his home, leading officials to believe that the youths may have been armed during at least part of the escape.

Details of the capture were skimpy last night, as the Lincoln parish sheriff indicated that there would be no further action against the youths from this area by his department.

Twenty patrol cars, an airplane and a pack of bloodhounds were brought into play in Lincoln, but the youths managed to shake off all capture attempts.

way hospital in Monroe and complained of severe headaches and of a beating by Shreveport police.

The last time he was admitted was after Monroe police found him lying in a gutter Oct. 17, with a smell of alcohol. He was transferred from Monroe hospital to Confederate the same day and died early Oct. 19.

Bryan told Dr. Boone that he and Caples had come to Shreveport Oct. 3 after leaving Monroe the night before, and had spent most of the day drinking.

TO STATION

After their arrest at the Tulane street home, he said they were brought to the police station.

"After we got there, Jack was beaten up and knocked out and they drug him on the elevator," Bryan said.

"I saw them hitting him a couple or three times," he asserted. "They caught him before he slumped to the floor."

He said he couldn't identify the officers individually.

Bryan said that two of the officers caught Caples as he fell and then dragged him onto the elevator and later into the drunk tank. He said that only fists were used and that he only saw Caples hit about the chest and sides.

Caples death was attributed by Dr. Boone to a brain hemorrhage caused by either a fall or a blow. Bryan said that after Caples was "thrown" into the drunk tank, he remained unconscious about 45 minutes. The next day he complained of difficulty in swallowing and a headache, Bryan said.

"Mr. Levesseur heard me tell I couldn't understand why my bond was $35 and his (Caples) $10, when they had to beat him to put him in the jail," Bryan said.

He said that there were three other prisoners in the drunk tank at the time he saw Caples unconscious.

After returning to Monroe, Bryan said he did not see Caples again until Oct. 12. He said Caples continuously complained of a headache, and that the last time he saw him alive was Oct. 16.

A report prepared by the Monroe police and forwarded to Shreveport police was not turned over to the coroner for the hearing yesterday. Greene, Caldwell and Richey maintained that the only incident occurring between them and Caples was just before he was placed on the elevator.

They said that Caples, shouting that he wanted to use the telephone, turned around and started back toward the patrol desk. Green said that he grabbed Caples by the shoulders and pushed him back toward the elevator.

Sgt. R. E. McBride, who worked as a jailer, said that when Caples and Bryan were released the next day the man showed no signs of having been beaten.

TESTIMONY

"I didn't see a thing on them. No signs of having been hit ... no blood or anything else," McBride said.

Patrolman Van C. Howell, who worked as jailer during the night, said that he saw and talked with both of them at 11 p.m. and about 4-50 a.m. and both times they were sober, but shaky.

Sgt. J. R. McGraw, who was in the cell block when the pair was brought up from the booking desk, said that Caples was drunker than Bryan and Caldwell assisted him into the drunk tank.

McGraw told the deputy coroner that neither man showed signs of scratches or blood or anything showing they might have been beaten.

Capt. W. C. Raley and patrolman Wayne Allen, who worked the booking desk, said they heard no signs of a scuffle in the hallway by the elevator and there was none at the desk.

Bryan had also told Dr. Boone that Caples' shirt was torn in the alleged beating and the next day he saw spots on the shirt which appeared to be blood.

He said that Levesseur helped them to get a shirt so they could hitchhike back to Monroe.

The Monroe man, who admitted having been arrested on numerous occasions for drunkenness, said they thought little of Caples' headache the next morning, thinking it a result of the alcoholic binge.

Dist. Atty. Edwin Blewer and two assistants sat in on parts of the hearing with Blewer directing several questions.

Red Chinese Charged In 17 Killings

largely barren plateau land fronting on the Tibetan Himalayas.

Peiping regards the eastern bulge of that province as a part of about 40,000 square miles of Indian-run territory that should be under Red China's flag.

To back up that claim, the Chinese moved in detachments months ago and built a road to link up Garlok, in southwest Tibet, with Yehchuan in the Chinese province of Sinkiang. Indians sent to investigate were taken prisoner, but later freed.

The Indian Foreign Ministry, calling the latest battle a matter of grave consequence, rejected the Communist Chinese note as falsely based, and protested strongly to Peiping.

It demanded the immediate release of Indian prisoners and withdrawal of the Chinese troops. It reserved the right to claim compensation when the exact extent of the losses is determined.

"The Chinese government," the ministry said in a statement, "could not be under any misapprehension about the traditional border."

"The narration of events in the Chinese memorandum are strongly contradicted by reports which have thus far reached the government."

The battlefield lies in the Chang Chemo Valley, south and west of the Chinese-built highway across Ladakh. It is about 100 miles east of Leh, the provincial capital.

Members of a police detachment that has operated in the area for years were camping at a place called Hot Springs.

As outlined in the ministry statement, the Chinese attack came on a patrol from the detachment which was hunting two constables who disappeared Tuesday on a scouting trip near Kong Ka Pass.

A government spokesman said he did not yet know how many policemen were in the patrol. He said one senior officer was known to be among the survivors.

Behind the Indian-China border conflict are differences stemming back to the days when conservative warlords ran China and the British ruled India.

India contends that watershed geography and a line drawn through the Himalayan heights in 1914 by a Briton, Sir Arthur Henry McMahon, establish her border with Chinese-run Tibet.

The Chinese never accepted the McMahon line. Their maps show plains and foothills to the south as Chinese territory.

Negotiations On Steel Set Again Today

ceedings brought by the government Tuesday.

McDonald's announcement came after brief meetings of the union's 171-man Wage Policy Committee and 33-member Executive Board. Policy committee members were sent home.

The union president declined comment when asked if the union was prepared to make a new offer to end the strike of 500,000 Steelworkers.

He was noncommittal when asked whether he would meet with the industry's regular negotiating team headed by Cooper.

Joint negotiations collapsed in Washington last week.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia told the union and steel industry Thursday to get back to the bargaining table. Both said they would do so.

The appellate court issued the directive in delaying enforcement of a Taft-Hartley injunction ordering the Steelworkers back to the mills.

A ruling on the union's appeal seeking to overthrow the injunction is expected sometime early next week.

The Philadelphia court must decide if the strike constitutes a national crisis and if that section of the Taft-Hartley Act permitting a ban on strikes for 80 days is constitutional.

Judge Herbert P. Sorg of U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh issued the injunction Wednesday. But the strike continued as he union immediately carried its fight to the appellate court and won an indefinite stay.

At issue in the strike are union demands for wage and fringe benefit improvements, and industry demands for changes in local plant work rules to effect production economies.

Steelworkers earned an average of $3.11 an hour before the strike.

In Watervliet, near Albany, $14,000 was confiscated in one raid.

The investigation commission said the raids had ramifications involving five other states—Minnesota, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut.

There apparently also were ties to Canada. Four raids were conducted by Canadian police across the border from Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Ryan said these raids were tied with New York state operations.

Approximately 100 of the arrests were in western New York, eight in the central zone and 30 in eastern New York.

Warrants were sworn out for several others who were not grabbed in the raids.

During the Monday night episode, a Bienville parish resident reported that a 30.06 caliber rifle and ammunition were stolen from his home, leading officials to believe that the youths may have been armed during at least part of the escape.

Details of the capture were skimpy last night, as the Lincoln parish sheriff indicated that there would be no further action against the youths from this area by his department.

Twenty patrol cars, an airplane and a pack of bloodhounds were brought into play in Lincoln, but the youths managed to shake off all capture attempts.

Further Inquiry Ordered In Death

Caples hit about the chest and sides.

Caples death was attributed by Dr. Boone to a brain hemorrhage caused by either a fall or a blow.

Bryan said that after Caples was "thrown" into the drunk tank, he remained unconscious about 45 minutes. The next day he complained of difficulty in swallowing and a headache, Bryan said.

"Mr. Levasseur heard me tell I couldn't understand why my bond was $35 and his (Caples) $10, when they had to beat him to put him in the jail," Bryan said.

He said that there were three other prisoners in the drunk tank at the time who saw Caples unconscious.

After returning to Monroe, Bryan said he did not see Caples again until Oct. 12. He said Caples continuously complained of a headache, and that the last time he saw him alive was Oct. 16.

A report prepared by the Monroe police and forwarded to Shreveport police was not turned over to the coroner for the hearing yesterday. Greene, Caldwell and Richey maintained that the only incident occurring between them and Caples was just before he was placed on the elevator.

They said that Caples, shouting that he wanted to use the telephone, turned around and started back toward the patrol desk. Green said that he grabbed Caples by the shoulders and pushed him back toward the elevator.

Sgt. R. E. McBride, who worked as a jailer, said that when Caples and Bryan were released the next day the man showed no signs of having been beaten.

TESTIMONY

"I didn't see a thing on them. No signs of having been hit. No blood or anything else," McBride said.

Patrolman Van C. Howell, who worked as jailer during the night, said that he saw and talked with both of them at 11 p.m. and about 4:30 a.m. and both times they were sober, but shaky.

Sgt. J. R. McGraw, who was in the cell block when the pair was brought up from the booking desk, said that Caples was drunker than Bryan and Caldwell assisted him into the drunk tank.

McGraw told the deputy coroner that neither man showed signs of scratches or blood or anything showing they might have been beaten.

Capt. W. C. Raley and patrolman Wayne Allen, who worked the booking desk, said they heard no signs of a scuffle in the hallway by the elevator and there was none at the desk.

Bryan had also told Dr. Boone that Caples' shirt was torn in the alleged beating and the next day he saw spots on the shirt which appeared to be blood.

He said that Levasseur helped them to get a shirt so they could hitchhike back to Monroe.

The Monroe man, who admitted having been arrested on numerous occasions for drunkenness, said they thought little of Caples headache the next morning, thinking it a result of the alcoholic binge.

largely barren plateau land fronting on the Tibetan Himalayas.

Peiping regards the eastern bulge of that province as a part of about 40,000 square miles of Indian-run territory that should be under Red China's flag.

To back up that claim, the Chinese moved in detachments months ago and built a road to link up Gartok, in southwest Tibet, with Yehchian in the Chinese province of Sinkiang. Indians sent to investigate were taken prisoner, but later freed.

The Indian Foreign Ministry, calling the latest battle a matter of grave consequence, rejected the Communist Chinese note as falsely based, and protested strongly to Peiping.

It demanded the immediate release of Indian prisoners and withdrawal of the Chinese troops. It reserved the right to claim compensation when the exact extent of the losses is determined.

"The Chinese government," the ministry said in a statement, "could not be under any misapprehension about the traditional border."

"The narration of events in the Chinese memorandum are strongly contradicted by reports which have thus far reached the government."

The battlefield lies in the Chang Chenmo Valley, south and west of the Chinese-built highway across Ladakh. It is about 100 miles east of Leh, the provincial capital.

Members of a police detachment that has operated in the area for years were camping at a place called Hot Springs.

As outlined in the ministry statement, the Chinese attack came on a patrol from the detachment which was hunting two constables who disappeared Tuesday on a scouting trip near Kong Ka Pass.

A government spokesman said he did not yet know how many policemen were in the patrol. He said one senior officer was known to be among the survivors.

Behind the Indian-China border conflict are differences stemming back to the days when conservative warlords ran China and the British ruled India.

India contends that watershed geography and a line drawn through the Himalayan heights in 1914 by a Briton, Sir Arthur Henry McMahon, establish her border with Chinese-run Tibet. The Chinese never accepted the McMahon line. Their maps show plains and foothills to the south as Chinese territory.

Wood last night would not say whether Kelly is taking a vacation or is on official business. The police chief's whereabouts was not revealed.

Rickover Wins Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, father of the atomic submarine, Friday won a court ruling that his public speeches may be copyrighted and not published without his permission.

U. S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff rejected the contention of Public Affairs Associates, Inc., of Washington that Rickover has no property rights in his speeches, that they are not subject to copyright, and that anyone is free to publish them without paying royalty or other compensation.

M. B. Schanpper, executive editor of Public Affairs Press, trade name of Public Affairs Associates, Inc., told reporters Holtzoff's ruling will be appealed.

"The central issue is, which is more important: the right of the people to know or the right of the admiral to sell," Schnapper said.

The litigation began after Public Affairs Press asked for copies of speeches by Rickover dealing with nuclear power and education, and was told they could not be published because they were to be included in a book being prepared for early publication by the admiral.

Holtzoff held Rickover's public addresses were not a part of the admiral's official duties. Accordingly, he said, they are his literary property and are not in the public domain.

In rejecting the argument advanced by Public Affairs Press that speeches by a public official using government facilities and prepared on "government time" were public property, Holtzoff commented:

"No one sells or mortgages all the products of his brain to his employer by the mere fact of his employment. The officer or the employee still remains a free agent.

"His intellectual products are his own, and do not automatically become the property of the government. The circumstance that the ideas for the literary product may have been gained in whole or in part as a result or in the course of the performance of his official duties does not affect the situation."

Holtzoff said the question raised in the litigation was a novel one which has never been decided by any federal court of appeals.

The judge distinguished the Rickover case from instances in which material is prepared by a government employee in the regular course of his work, and which is issued by the government as a public document.

In such a case, Holtzoff said, the employee is hired to write for the government, and the material belongs to the government which may not copyright it.

But in the Rickover case, the judge said, Rickover's public speeches were the literary product of a government official whose official duties do not include writing a book or delivering speeches.

Rickover began copyrighting his talks after Public Affairs Press announced its intention of publishing some of them. The speeches were collected and published in book form by E. P. Dutton Co.

Policeman Hits Story Of Mother

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A policeman accused of refusing to help a frantic mother who had delivered her own baby in the family automobile, denied Friday he knew a birth was involved.

Police Chief Walter E. Headley said Patrolman C. W. Smith's story was being checked against that told by the mother, Patricia Blakey, 25, and her husband, Rudy.

Blakey, a 27-year-old aircraft mechanic, said he was "driving like crazy" about 6:30 p. m. Wednesday as his wife delivered the baby, a boy weighing 8 pounds 11 ounces. A few blocks further along his wife saw Smith on his motorcycle.

"She recognized him as an old school friend and the husband of a girl friend of hers," Blakey said. "She rolled down the window, and said, 'Please, Billy, help me.' We wanted him to escort us to the hospital. He said he couldn't escort us but he'd follow us."

"He followed us for a couple of blocks and then turned off," Mrs. Blakey said she was in labor only 10 or 15 minutes. She and the baby were reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

Smith's version of the incident, as reported by Headley, was that the car window was only partially rolled down and Mrs. Blakey's face was covered with a cloth. (She said she was biting on a handkerchief.)

Smith said she was sitting upright and he thought she had a head injury but assumed it was not too serious. He added that he offered to call an ambulance but when the car drove off he followed long enough to see that it was making satisfactory progress toward the hospital.

Headley said the department has a rule against escorting private automobiles to hospitals because the excited drivers frequently cause accidents, but he conceded the officer probably could have been of more assistance in the Blakey case.

"If Smith's explanation is correct," Headley added, "we'll probably drop the matter. If it doesn't check out, disciplinary action will be taken."

Trophies Awarded To AF Champions

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The winners of the Air Force world championships in air defense — sharpest of the nation's jet interception teams — received trophies and applause Friday.

At the same time, the Air Force gave assurance that competitions of this type would continue indefinitely despite criticism from some quarters.

Brig. Gen. Milton H. Ashkins, host to the weapons competition, said he anticipates there will be jet interception competitions for at least 10 more years until missiles and unmanned automatic equipment—or global disarmament itself—make it no longer necessary.

Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, Colorado Springs, Colo., commander of the Air Defense Command, presented Richard I. Bong trophies—named for one of the greatest interceptor pilots of them all—to captains of the winning teams.

Mrs. Clinton D. Vincent, widow of a famous Air Force brigadier general, presented Radio Corp. of America trophies to the radar controller ground teams that guided the winning pilots to the target area.

Although he did not mention them, his comments were related directly to criticism of the meet voiced by two Vermont mayors who were here briefly and called the competition a fraud and a waste of money.

Another mayor, William H. Henderson of Colorado Springs, who also visited the meet, sent a telegram disagreeing with the Vermont mayors and endorsing the weapons meet.

Team captain Col. James H. Hancock, Sebring, Fla., received the trophy on behalf of the Genie rocket firing F-89 contest winner, the 319th Squadron from Bunker Hill AFB, Ind. The 319th rolled up 4,900 points out of a possible 5,000 for the highest score in the entire 10-day competition.

The runnerup trophy in the F-89 competition went to Col. William A. Jones, Ontario, Calif., of the

French Head Asks Probe Of Shooting

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle Friday ordered an investigation of the incident in which wild shots were fired at Senator Francois Mitterand to determine if the attack was an assassination attempt or fake.

Charges that the left-winger senator arranged to have his car sprayed with machine gun bullets were leveled Thursday by former Deputy Robert Pesquet, an extreme right-winger, charged before a judge that Mitterand hired him and another man to shoot up his car for political advantage. The senator, he charged was safely ducking in a nearby lawn.

Mitterand denied Pesquet's charges and stood on his first version of the attack. He was followed home early last Friday and just had time to leap clear of the car as unknown assailants fired on it.

De Gaulle's call for a justice ministry investigation of the affair apparently was prompted by the political repercussions of the incident.

Mitterand, a former justice and interior minister, is a leading advocate of negotiations with the Algerian rebels. Only a few hours before the shots were fired at him, Deputy Lucien Neuwirth had warned that "terror commands" of right-wingers were planning to stop any Algerian settlement by killing key members of the De Gaulle government.

Right-wing leaders have denied that any "plot" exists, but the newspaper reports persist.

Mitterand, due to appear before Judge Andre Braunschweig again, said he would sue Pesquet for slander and "persons unknown" for trying to kill him.

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The winners of the Air Force world championships in air defense — sharpest of the nation's jet interception teams — received trophies and applause Friday.

At the same time, the Air Force gave assurance that competitions of this type would continue indefinitely despite criticism from some quarters.

Brig. Gen. Milton H. Ashkins, host to the weapons competition, said he anticipates there will be jet interceptor competitions for at least 10 more years until missiles and unmanned automatic equipment—or global disarmament itself—make it no longer necessary.

Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, Colorado Springs, Colo., commander of the Air Defense Command, presented Richard I. Bong trophies—named for one of the greatest interceptor pilots of them all—to captains of the winning teams.

Mrs. Clinton D. Vincent, widow of a famous Air Force brigadier general, presented Radio Corp. of America trophies to the radar controller ground teams that guided the winning pilots to the target area.

Atkinson said worldwide weapons meets are essential to evaluate the performance of teams and equipment.

Although he did not mention them, his comments were related directly to criticism of the meet voiced by two Vermont mayors who were here briefly and called the competition a fraud and a waste of money.

Another mayor, William H. Henderson of Colorado Springs, who also visited the meet, sent a telegram disagreeing with the Vermont mayors and endorsing the weapons meet.

Team captain Col. James H. Hancock, Sebring, Fla., received the trophy on behalf of the Genie rocket firing F-89 contest winner, the 39th Squadron from Bunker Hill AFB, Ind. The 39th rolled up 4,900 points out of a possible 5,000 for the highest score in the entire 10-day competition.

The runnerup trophy in the F-89 competition went to Col. William A. Jones, Ontario, Calif., of the

Keeping Things Small

Illogically, our federal government, represented by the department of justice, has taken the position that anything big is bad—except the labor union. It has adopted a policy of lopping off businesses and industries because of size, regardless of whether any monopoly is involved.

Take the case of Pabst and Blatz, two of the old brewery names of Milwaukee and the nation.

About a year ago the Pabst Brewing Company acquired the Blatz Brewing Company, which had suffered some decline in business. Robert A. Bicks, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, now has decided that the two firms combined would be too large, since it would make the new organization the fifth largest producer of beer in the nation.

Mr. Bicks insisted the merger was a law violation intended to give Pabst some gain in the brewery field that presumably it could not otherwise obtain. So, he filed an anti-trust suit, demanding that the merger of Pabst and Blatz be dissolved. He explained in the suit that the anti-trust division of the justice department does not intend to countenance further concentration of the brewery business. He said that the nation's 25 largest breweries accounted for 69 per cent of beer sales in 1957 while the total number of breweries in the last 20 years had dropped from 750 to 252, although the consumption of beer had almost doubled.

As long as there are 25 big breweries working in competition with each other and enough other smaller breweries also working in competition to make a total of 252, there seems no imminent danger of a monopoly. If there is no monopoly, what is wrong with being big? If Mr. Bicks wants to keep things small by lopping off the bigger business and industries, why should he start at fifth place?

Some visionary persons who have resented dictatorships in such countries as Hitler's Germany and Stalin's and Khrushchev's Russia have thought how easy it would be to end dictatorships if some one would only "liquidate" the top man as soon as he took office. Even these persons, however, never gave much thought to ending dictatorships by eliminating the fifth man down the line.

What about the four brewing companies that would still be ahead of Pabst if the merger were permitted? They are bigger than Pabst. If Pabst is bad because it is big, surely they are bad, too.

Somebody has to be the biggest. The department of justice seems to feel that this also means somebody has to be the worst. If we were to assume that the biggest was always the worst and were to lop off that industry or business which happened to be biggest we would soon reach such a stage of diminishing industry that everyone would be afraid to grow or expand because of the fear of being biggest. That would bring a quick end to American free enterprise and free competition. It would bring an end to our capitalistic system, which provides so many millions of jobs, at good salaries, for the those who can't or don't want to operate their own business.

There is no reason to think the number of beer manufacturing concerns has declined because of a decrease in competition. In all probability, the competition in the beer business was never as keen as now.

Many of the beer firms, along with all kinds of other businesses, may have dropped out because of such things as federal taxation, labor problems, governmental regulations and controls, inefficiency in management, or loss of markets through changes brought by the course of civilization.

If the government insists on keeping businesses so small they can't survive, it will defeat its own purpose by bringing on government operation, ownership and socialism.

Monopoly Probe Urged

The Senate Small Business Committee has urged an investigation of what it described as a "dangerous monopoly" developing in the scrap steel industry. There is, by the very nature of this business, probably some justification for the committee's conclusion in the specific case mentioned.

But—while monopolistic tendencies do continue to show themselves in business and industry—the same inclinations are not absent from labor union combines. There is certainly no less reason for the committees of Congress to overlook danger from this direction.

In particular, the recent majority report of the small business committee as filed by Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana accused Luria Bros. & Co. of trying to freeze out small competitors. Sen. Jacob Javits of New York concurred with the majority in desiring a "factual inquiry" into the scrap metal situation, but said the attorney general should decide whether any anti-trust action should be pressed. Two other senators—Smathers of Florida and Bible of Nevada—said they would take no position on the majority report.

The Long report recommended an investigation of Luria Bros., also a check on the activities of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel. The contention was that Luria controls the policies of the trade institution.

On the other hand, the institute made a statement to the effect that Luria did not control the policies. Edwin Barringer, executive vice president of the organization said the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel is run by men from 40 companies with a single vote each.

The report of the committee said Luria uses a "wide range of unhealthy practices designed to monopolize the industry." Listed were loans to and purchase of competitors, installation of "super yards" on steel mill property with exclusive dealing contracts. By percentage, the report pointed out Luria accounted for 74.5 per cent of scrap sales in the North Atlantic area, 50.6 per cent on the Pacific area, 83.3 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania and 78.3 per cent of shipments abroad through the New York.

By its very nature, scrap metal must be a volume business or no business at all. On a small scale, costs would run as high on scrap as on the raw metal from the ore. It is no wonder that the steel manufacturers take an interest in the larger collectors of scrap and encourage them to reclaim as much metal as possible at a price which will assure greater profits.

While this practice is admittedly on the side of monopoly, similarities between this and the recruiting of members and collections of dues by the large unions—or combinations of unions—cannot be overlooked.

In all fairness, it is time for the proper committees of Congress to look into "big labor" as well as big businesses when cries of monopoly are heard.

Khrush's Disarm Offer

Nikita's Proposal Has Never Provided For Inspection And Control To Guarantee Compliance

Colonel F. W. Campbell of Las Cruces, New Mexico, writes: "... Can you mention any other great military power, that at its height, offered to completely disarm, and urged the powers of the world to do so likewise. I urge you to try and cooperate with his (Khrushchev's) object, and not try to throw a monkey wrench in the machinery."

The difficulty about all this is that Khrushchev really makes no offer of disarmament. Had such an offer been made, properly and completely, it would have included provision for inspection and control. Anyone can say, "You disarm and I'll disarm." Why not put it the other way: "I shall completely disarm and then you completely disarm."

But how can any country know that another country has completely disarmed without provision for total inspection and absolute control by an international body. Are we to take Soviet Russia's promises on faith? What justification can there be for such a faith? Has Soviet Russia's record of kept treaties been such that the precedents would justify accepting anything from that source on faith?

I would go further and say that no disarmament can be accepted without inspection and control. The United States would be ready to accept inspection and control if Soviet Russia accepted the same terms.

It was Bernard Baruch, as far back as 1946, who proposed, at the United Nations concerning atomic weapons, that their production be limited, inspected and controlled. This was then rejected by Soviet Russia and has since been rejected by Soviet Russia.

In a speech before the House of Representatives of South Carolina on April 16, 1947, Baruch said:

"Let us not be deceived—we are today in the midst of a cold war. Our enemies are to be found abroad and at home but let us never forget this:

"Our unrest is the heart of their success. The peace of the world is the hope and the goal of our political system; it is the despair and defeat of those who stand against us."

This was said after Baruch had spent months trying to get the Russians to accept a program which would have saved them and us billions of dollars developing unconventional weapons, atomic bombs, hydrogen bombs, missiles, rockets, space platforms, and what not. Baruch said then, in 1946, that we would accept disarmament if the Russians agreed to inspection and control. Those are the two words that are the gist of any offer for disarmament. Without them the offer is rhetoric. When Khrushchev delivered his disarmament speech in the United Nations in September, 1959, 13 years after Baruch, he offered no inspection and no control. He said: "Upon the attainment of general and complete disarmament which must include the liquidation of all services of the armed forces, the destruction of all types of weapons including weapons of mass annihilation (nuclear, rocket, chemical, bacteriological), the international control body shall have free access to all objects under control."

This is not good enough. This means that if one side does it and the other does not disarm, what can be done about it? Shall we limit ourselves to calling the nation that does not live up to its agreement a louse? It is like abolishing murder without a police force to maintain the peace. When a statesman arises and says "Let you and me disarm," but he does not say that there is to be inspection and control, he is bluffing and his bluff should be called. It is impractical to talk about disarmament unless provision is made to inspect the disarming countries from border to border. Good faith and sacred promises by statesmen are not to be trusted.

It would be a godsend to the human race if a true way could be found to effect disarmament, particularly of the unconventional weapons which are so costly that they impoverish the nations which produce them even without a war. But there is no chance that any nation will dare to risk weakening its defenses until a most efficient and impartial method is devised for inspection and control. Khrushchev knows that and if he is sincere, he will himself propose such a method.

Treasury Notes

Thousands Line Up To Plunk Down Own Cash On New Issue

Between morning and mid-night this past Oct. 6, tens of thousands of informed Americans lined up at bank windows from coast to coast to plunk down their own cash to buy a new U. S. Treasury note which will pay them 5 per cent a year interest from now until mid-1964.

By so doing, they punctured several fallacies and dramatized some vitally important points about YOU, the middle-income American with dollars in a savings nestegg. Specifically:

You haven't lost faith in your dollar's soundness at all—despite the scare talk at the highest level of government about your fears.

You aren't nearly as worried about galloping inflation in coming years as many policy makers in Washington think you are.

You are decidedly aware of different rates of return on savings and while an extra one or two per cent on a small amount of money mounts up to very little in a year, you care about getting that extra.

You think that 5 per cent a year interest on an obligation of the U. S. Government is magically high.

You haven't any special loyalty to any form of savings, and you are quite willing to shift your nestegg to gain more interest on it.

You well might jump at a chance to put your cash into a U. S. bond which would pay you 5 per cent a year or so over a long period of years.

You may not be aware, though, that a marketable U. S. Treasury obligation carries some degree of risk—for a "marketable" note means it is traded in the open market and thus, it can go down in price before it is paid off at 100 cents on the dollar at the specified due date.

You can be an extremely potent anti-inflationary force in this period if you decide to lock up a larger portion of your earnings in a U. S. bond.

All of these conclusions from the single fact that a lot of people bought a new U. S. Treasury note on Oct. 6?

Yes. And each conclusion is warranted. For the offering of this 5 per cent note by the Treasury wasn't widely publicized. While Wall Street knew about it and there was more than usual discussion about it in the newspapers and over radio and TV, there wasn't any real hoopla. There was an interval of only a couple of days between the Treasury's announcement of the offering and the actual sale. The Treasury accepted subscriptions to the note only on Oct. 6.

Yet, over 100,000 individuals drew out savings from banks and savings institutions and other securities to invest in these new notes. They got to their banks to enter an order on the one day the subscription books were open. And the demand for the notes from individuals undoubtedly would have been larger had more people known about the sale on time and known how to subscribe to U. S. Treasury notes.

Now, in financial capitals the world over as well as in key centers across the nation, the Treasury is being hailed for "making history" with this offering. And it did sell $2.2 billion of the 5s, almost half to individual savers. This does go down as one of the few spectacular Treasury financing successes in recent years.

But in my mind, the real "history" was made by your response.

(After all, the Treasury didn't have any alternative except to pay a 5 per cent interest rate. It had to raise the cash, and interest rates in the open market on Oct. 6 were at a level where the going rate for U. S. Treasury borrowings was 5 per cent.)

You were the one who demonstrated your faith in the dollar's soundness and your belief that the rise in the cost of living in the years ahead won't be sharp enough to cut deeply into that 5 per cent return. You were the one who made up your mind to lock up savings in a U. S. issue.

You were the one who until a short while ago was strictly the province of the giant institutions and wealthy investors, and who revealed a sophistication about this market the experts didn't dream you had.

Candidates Set

No One Expects Entry Of Another Serious Possibility

The field of Presidential candidates in both major parties after months of jelling processes is about set, most politicians and political observers today were willing to admit.

Out of a list of ten will be found the names of the two men who will carry the colors of Democrats and Republicans into the November classic, (a year and two weeks hence) it is conceded.

No one expects the entry of another serious possibility. As for nine out of the ten, only death or a crippling illness will eliminate them until a decisive national convention ballot performs that function.

The Republican field is a most exclusive affair. The possibilities are Vice President Richard M. Nixon, of California, and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

With the Democrats the situation is vastly different. Favorite sons may crowd the field to such an extent that twenty-five names could be presented on the first ballot, but the name of the winner is in a list of seven, plus perhaps one. The seven are: Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois; Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri; Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts; Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas; Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; Governor Edmund G. Brown of California and Senator Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey.

Some politicians are inclined to pare the Democratic field of possibilities still deeper, for Senator Humphrey and Governors Brown and Meyner are very, very long shots. But there are remote possibilities that conditions might arise to enhance the chances of these three.

The other one possibility about whom there has been increased talk in the past two weeks is Senator Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who may capture the 64-person Ohio delegation and build on it. Lausche also has strength in the South and elsewhere, but how many delegates these supporting elements can put into the convention is unknown.

There is a minority who believe that the Republican race for the nomination can turn into a one-man center. The view of these is that Vice President Nixon has too long a lead to be overcome. It could be that this may develop.

Nixon has been a 1960 Presidential candidate for at least since 1956. Rockefeller, only a year ago less two weeks, came into the picture by his election as New York Governor. Not an actual flesh-and-blood delegate has been elected anywhere nor will be for five months yet. Under those circumstances no political realists, one of the most prominent members of whom is Nixon himself, think other than that Rockefeller will go into the Republican National convention with strong support.

Still unannounced but the best candidate recently has been, Senator Symington. In October and November these are some of the States that Symington has been into or will go into for speeches: New Jersey, Texas, Georgia, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Ohio, Florida, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, California and Oklahoma. Symington's present plans call for entering no Presidential primaries.

Only Senator Kennedy has made plans for entering a number of primaries, some of which may turn out to be favorite-son fortresses which he will in the end pass up.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is no longer regarded as merely a receptive candidate. The announcement by Speaker Sam Rayburn in Dallas that delegates will be sought for Johnson throughout the nation, made it certain a well-financed Johnson organization will be built. Rayburn prescribed the condition that the Texas delegation be a last ditch and not merely a first ballot favorite-son Johnson supporter.

There are some dissenters including Texas Democratic National Committeewoman Mrs. R. D. Randolph, who is widely credited with a desire to swing Texas behind Stevenson after a few ballots. But Johnson is sure to have the delegation as long as he wants it. There is a native Texan in the White House now, and State pride can be depended upon to do everything possible to put another there. Texas has an historic record for fidelity to a Presidential candidate. It voted for Wilson on 46 ballots at Baltimore in 1912. In 1920 it voted for William G. McAdoo on 44 ballots at San Francisco and in 1924 took up where it left off and voted for McAdoo on the first 100 of the 103 ballots in Madison Square Garden.

Present plans do not contemplate Johnson entering any Presidential primaries. In Oregon where the law requires the Secretary of State to put all likely nominees on the ballot, Secretary of State Howell Appling, a transplanted Texan is said to have made up his mind to put Symington, Stevenson, Kennedy and Humphrey on the ballot, but to have been undecided about Johnson.

Needs Operation

Man Told He Must Undergo Surgery Or Diet Rest Of Life

"My doctor tells me it's surgery or diet for the rest of my life," writes Mr. G. of Pawtucket, R. I. "I have a duodenal ulcer with partial obstruction. I've dieted for 3 years, stopped smoking—but still feel badly. Would you consider operation?"

ANSWER: Definitely. But it's not a "cure-all."

FALLING HAIR

Mrs. D. of Washington, D. C. writes that she has been having trouble with falling hair. Weekly treatments with ultraviolet light in her doctor's office have helped, but she can't afford treatments. Wants to know if she can buy a machine.

ANSWER: Tell your doctor you can't come in every week. He will tell you where you can buy such a machine and will tell you how to use it. But you should go in to see him at least once a month so he can supervise you. Ultraviolet, used unwisely, can be harmful.

OVERACTIVE SWEAT GLANDS

"I am bothered by excessive perspiration," says Mr. H. of Alexandria, Va. "Is this condition caused by disease?"

ANSWER: The usual cause is overactive sweat glands in healthy persons. Antiperspirants sold in drugstores usually ameliorate the condition. Excessive sweating is not unusual in such conditions as blood infections, tuberculosis and overactive thyroid.

OPERATION, ONLY CHOICE

"I have cancer of the intestines," writes Mrs. X. of Detroit. "They want me to be operated on. But I have been told that I can be cured by special medicines. Which do you think would be the most effective?"

ANSWER: Unfortunately, you have only one choice: operation.

CLINIC DOCTORS ARE ABLE, KINDLY

Mrs. X. of New Jersey says: "I have been having bad indigestion for months. My doctor advises a G I series and a gall bladder X-ray. But I can't afford them. I advise I go to a clinic. What do you advise?"

ANSWER: There's nothing to be ashamed of in going to a hospital clinic. Lack of funds should not stand in the way of early diagnosis. You will find that the doctors in such clinics are able and kindly.

SPECIFIC DRUGS HELPFUL FOR GOUT

"Why is it important to diagnose gout early?" asks Mr. O. of Evanston, Illinois.

ANSWER: So you won't go along ineffectually being treated for "rheumatism." There are specific drugs that help gouty patients.

Daily Devotional

God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it He had rested from all His work. — Gen. 2:3

There is controversy today over Sunday observance. In some areas, one will find farm work going on as usual, washed clothing on the line, lawns being mowed, stores wide open and golf and recreation centers crowded. With public utilities to be maintained for churches, as well as home, it is not easy to draw a hard and fast line for everyone—but the individual Christian can do this for himself. There may sometimes be "an ox in the ditch" but Sunday can be a day of worship regardless.

God our Father, help us to use the Sabbath wisely and well as directed by Thee and Thy Son. In Christ's holy name we pray. Amen.

Bicks, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, now has decided that the two firms combined would be too large, since it would make the new organization the fifth largest producer of beer in the nation.

Mr. Bicks insisted the merger was a law violation intended to give Pabst some gain in the brewery field that presumably it could not otherwise obtain. So, he filed an anti-trust suit, demanding that the merger of Pabst and Blatz be dissolved. He explained in the suit that the anti-trust division of the justice department does not intend to countenance further concentration of the brewery business. He said that the nation's 25 largest breweries accounted for 69 per cent of beer sales in 1957 while the total number of breweries in the last 20 years had dropped from 750 to 252, although the consumption of beer had almost doubled.

As long as there are 25 big breweries working in competition with each other and enough other smaller breweries also working in competition to make a total of 252, there seems no imminent danger of a monopoly. If there is no monopoly, what is wrong with being big? If Mr. Bicks wants to keep things small by lopping off the bigger business and industries, why should he start at fifth place?

Some visionary persons who have resented dictatorships in such countries as Hitler's Germany and Stalin's and Khrushchev's Russia have thought how easy it would be to end dictatorships if some one would only "liquidate" the top man as soon as he took office. Even these persons, however, never gave much thought to ending dictatorships by eliminating the fifth man down the line.

What about the four brewing companies that would still be ahead of Pabst if the merger were permitted? They are bigger than Pabst. If Pabst is bad because it is big, surely they are bad, too.

Somebody has to be the biggest. The department of justice seems to feel that this also means somebody has to be the worst. If we were to assume that the biggest was always the worst and were to lop off that industry or business which happened to be biggest we would soon reach such a stage of diminishing industry that everyone would be afraid to grow or expand because of the fear of being biggest. That would bring a quick end to American free enterprise and free competition. It would bring an end to our capitalistic system, which provides so many millions of jobs, at good salaries, for the those who can't or don't want to operate their own business.

There is no reason to think the number of beer manufacturing concerns has declined because of a decrease in competition. In all probability, the competition in the beer business was never as keen as now.

Many of the beer firms, along with all kinds of other businesses, may have dropped out because of such things as federal taxation, labor problems, governmental regulations and controls, inefficiency in management, or loss of markets through changes brought by the course of civilization.

If the government insists on keeping businesses so small they can't survive, it will defeat its own purpose by bringing on government operation, ownership and socialism.

Monopoly Probe Urged

The Senate Small Business Committee has urged an investigation of what it described as a "dangerous monopoly" developing in the scrap steel industry. There is, by the very nature of this business, probably some justification for the committee's conclusion in the specific case mentioned.

But—while monopolistic tendencies do continue to show themselves in business and industry—the same inclinations are not absent from labor union combines. There is certainly no less reason for the committees of Congress to overlook danger from this direction.

In particular, the recent majority report of the small business committee as filed by Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana accused Luria Bros. & Co. of trying to freeze out small competitors. Sen. Jacob Javits of New York concurred with the majority in desiring a "factual inquiry" into the scrap metal situation, but said the attorney general should decide whether any anti-trust action should be pressed. Two other senators—Smathers of Florida and Bible of Nevada—said they would take no position on the majority report.

The Long report recommended an investigation of Luria Bros., also a check on the activities of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel. The contention was that Luria controls the policies of the trade institution.

On the other hand, the institute made a statement to the effect that Luria did not control the policies. Edwin Barringer, executive vice president of the organization said the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel is run by men from 40 companies with a single vote each.

The report of the committee said Luria uses a "wide range of unhealthy practices designed to monopolize the industry." Listed were loans to and purchase of competitors, installation of "super yards" on steel mill property with exclusive dealing contracts. By percentage, the report pointed out Luria accounted for 74.5 per cent of scrap sales in the North Atlantic area, 50.6 per cent on the Pacific area, 83.3 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania and 78.3 per cent of shipments abroad through the New York.

By its very nature, scrap metal must be a volume business or no business at all. On a small scale, costs would run as high on scrap as on the raw metal from the ore. It is no wonder that the steel manufacturers take an interest in the larger collectors of scrap and encourage them to reclaim as much metal as possible at a price which will assure greater profits.

While this practice is admittedly on the side of monopoly, similarities between this and the recruiting of members and collections of dues by the large unions—or combinations of unions—cannot be overlooked.

In all fairness, it is time for the proper committees of Congress to look into "big labor" as well as big businesses when cries of monopoly are heard.

Science Sneezes On

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Khrush's Disarm Offer

Nikita's Proposal Has Never Provided For Inspection And Control To Guarantee Compliance

Colonel F. W. Campbell of Las Cruces, New Mexico, writes: "... Can you mention any other great military power, that at its height, offered to completely disarm, and urged the powers of the world to do so likewise. I urge you to try and cooperate with his (Khrushchev's) object, and not try to throw a monkey wrench in the machinery."

The difficulty about all this is that Khrushchev really makes no offer of disarmament. Had such an offer been made, properly and completely, it would have included provision for inspection and control. Anyone can say, "You disarm and I'll disarm." Why not put it the other way: "I shall completely disarm and then you completely disarm."

But how can any country know that another country has completely disarmed without provision for total inspection and absolute control by an international body. Are we to take Soviet Russia's promises on faith? What justification can there be for such a faith? Has Soviet Russia's record of kept treaties been such that the precedents would justify accepting anything from that source on faith?

I would go further and say that no disarmament can be accepted without inspection and control. The United States would be ready to accept inspection and control

if Soviet Russia accepted the same terms.

It was Bernard Baruch, as far back as 1946, who proposed, at the United Nations concerning atomic weapons, that their production be limited, inspected and controlled. This was then rejected by Soviet Russia and has since been rejected by Soviet Russia.

In a speech before the House of Representatives of South Carolina on April 16, 1947, Baruch said:

"Let us not be deceived—we are today in the midst of a cold war. Our enemies are to be found abroad and at home but let us never forget this:

"Our unrest is the heart of their success. The peace of the world is the hope and the goal of our political system; it is the despair and defeat of those who stand against us."

This was said after Baruch had spent months trying to get the Russians to accept a program which would have saved them and us billions of dollars developing unconventional weapons, atomic bombs, hydrogen bombs, missiles, rockets, space platforms, and what not. Baruch said then, in 1946, that we would accept disarmament if the Russians agreed to inspection and control. Those are the two words that are the gist of any offer for disarmament. Without them the offer is rhetoric. When Khrushchev delivered his disarmament speech in the United Nations in September, 1959, 13 years after Baruch, he offered no inspection and no control. He said: "Upon the attainment of general and complete disarmament which must include the liquidation of all services of the armed forces, the destruction of all types of weapons including weapons of mass annihilation (nuclear, rocket, chemical, bacteriological), the international control body shall have free access to all objects under control."

This is not good enough. This means that if one side does it and the other does not disarm, what can be done about it? Shall we limit ourselves to calling the nation that does not live up to its agreement a loser? It is like abolishing murder without a police force to maintain the peace. When a statesman arises and says "Let you and me disarm," but he does not say that there is to be inspection and control, he is bluffing and his bluff should be called. It is impractical to talk about disarmament unless provision is made to inspect the disarming countries from border to border. Good faith and sacred promises by statesmen are not to be trusted.

It would be a godsend to the human race if a true way could be found to effect disarmament, particularly of the unconventional weapons which are so costly that they impoverish the nations which produce them even without a war. But there is no chance that any nation will dare to risk weakening its defenses until a most efficient and impartial method is devised for inspection and control. Khrushchev knows that and if he is sincere, he will himself propose such a method.

Again I Promise

How often have I told you that ... By all the stars above ... I promise you, dear one, you are ... The only one I love? ... So many times, and yet again ... I give my word to you ... That every moment day and night ... I shall be always true ... For you mean everything to me ... You are so sweet and kind ... You are the inspiration good ... That generates my mind ... My heart is filled with happiness ... As long as you are near ... Your smile is all it takes to make ... My troubles disappear ... God bless you, dearest one, and may ... God help me day and night ... To keep my vow with twinkling stars ... And down with sunshine bright.

Candidates Set

No One Expects Entry Of Another Serious Possibility

The field of Presidential candidates in both major parties after months of jelling processes is about set, most politicians and political observers today were willing to admit.

Out of a list of ten will be found the names of the two men who will carry the colors of Democrats and Republicans into the November classic, (a year and two weeks hence) it is conceded.

No one expects the entry of another serious possibility. As for nine out of the ten, only death or a crippling illness will eliminate them until a decisive national convention ballot performs that function.

The Republican field is a most exclusive affair. The possibilities are Vice President Richard M. Nixon, of California, and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

With the Democrats the situation is vastly different. Favorite sons may crowd the field to such an extent that twenty-five names could be presented on the first ballot, but the name of the winner is in a list of seven, plus perhaps one. The seven are: Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois; Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri; Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts; Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas; Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; Governor Edmund G. Brown of California and Senator Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey.

Some politicians are inclined to pare the Democratic field of possibilities still deeper, for Senator Humphrey and Governors Brown and Meyner are very, very long shots. But there are remote possibilities that conditions might arise to enhance the chances of these three.

The other one possibility about whom there has been increased talk in the past two weeks is Senator Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who may capture the 64-person Ohio delegation and build on it. Lausche also has strength in the South and elsewhere, but how many delegates these supporting elements can put into the convention is unknown.

There is a minority who believe that the Republican race for the nomination can turn into a one - man canter. The view of these is that Vice President Nixon has too long a lead to be overcome. It could be that this may develop. Nixon has been a 1960 Presidential candidate for at least since 1956. Rockefeller, only a year ago less two weeks, came into the picture by his election as New York Governor. Not an actual flesh - and - blood delegate has been elected anywhere nor will be for five months yet. Under those circumstances no political realists, one of the most prominent members of whom is Nixon himself, think other than that Rockefeller will go into the Republican National convention with strong support.

Still unannounced but the busiest candidate recently has been, Senator Symington. In October and November these are some of the States that Symington has been into or will go into for speeches: New Jersey, Texas, Georgia, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Ohio, Florida, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, California and Oklahoma. Symington's present plans call for entering no Presidential primaries.

Only Senator Kennedy has made plans for entering a number of primaries, some of which may turn out to be favorite-son fortresses which he will in the end pass up.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is no longer regarded as merely a receptive candidate. The announcement by Speaker Sam Rayburn in Dallas that delegates will be sought for Johnson throughout the nation, made it certain a well - financed Johnson organization will be built. Rayburn prescribed the condition that the Texas delegation be a last ditch and not merely a first ballot favorite-son Johnson supporters.

There are some dissenters including Texas Democratic National Committeewoman Mrs. R. D. Randolph, who is widely credited with a desire to swing Texas behind Stevenson after a few ballots. But Johnson is sure to have the delegation as long as he wants it. There is a native Texan in the White House now, and State pride can be depended upon to do everything possible to put another there. Texas has an historic record for fidelity to a Presidential candidate. It voted for Wilson on 46 ballots at Baltimore in 1912. In 1920 it voted for William G. McAdoo on 44 ballots at San Francisco and in 1924 took up where it left off and voted for McAdoo on the first 100 of the 103 ballots in Madison Square Garden.

Present plans do not contemplate Johnson entering any Presidential primaries. In Oregon where the law requires the Secretary of State to put all likely nominees on the ballot, Secretary of State Howell Appling, a transplanted Texan is said to have made up his mind to put Symington, Stevenson, Kennedy and Humphrey on the ballot, but to have been undecided about Johnson.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Needs Operation

Man Told He Must Undergo Surgery Or Diet Rest Of Life

"My doctor tells me it's surgery or diet for the rest of my life," writes Mr. G. of Pawtucket, R. I. "I have a duodenal ulcer with partial obstruction. I've dieted for 3 years, stopped smoking—but still feel badly. Would you consider operation?"

ANSWER: Definitely. But it's not a "cure-all."

FALLING HAIR

Mrs. D. of Washington, D. C. writes that she has been having trouble with falling hair. Weekly treatments with ultraviolet light in her doctor's office have helped, but she can't afford treatments. Wants to know if she can buy a machine.

ANSWER: Tell your doctor you can't come in every week. He will tell you where you can buy such a machine and will tell you how to use it. But you should go in to see him at least once a month so he can supervise you. Ultraviolet, used unwisely, can be harmful.

OVERACTIVE SWEAT GLANDS

"I am bothered by excessive perspiration," says Mr. H. of Alexandria, Va. "Is this condition caused by disease?"

ANSWER: The usual cause is overactive sweat glands in healthy persons. Antiperspirants sold in drugstores usually ameliorate the condition. Excessive sweating is not unusual in such conditions as blood infections, tuberculosis and overactive thyroid.

OPERATION, ONLY CHOICE

"I have cancer of the intestines," writes Mrs. X. of Detroit. "They want me to be operated on. But I have been told that I can be cured by special medicines. Which do you think would be the most effective?"

ANSWER: Unfortunately, you have only one choice; operation.

CLINIC DOCTORS ARE ABLE, KINDLY

Mrs. X. of New Jersey says: "I have been having bad indigestion for months. My doctor advises a G I series and a gall bladder X-ray. But I can't afford them unless I go to a clinic. What do you advise?"

ANSWER: There's nothing to be ashamed of in going to a hospital clinic. Lack of funds should not stand in the way of early diagnosis. You will find that the doctors in such clinics are able and kindly.

SPECIFIC DRUGS HELPFUL FOR GOUT

"Why is it important to diagnose gout early?" asks Mr. O. of Evanston, Illinois.

ANSWER: So you won't go along ineffectually being treated for "rheumatism." There are specific drugs that help gouty patients.

Daily Devotional

God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it He had rested from all His work. — Gen. 2:3.

There is controversy today over Sunday observance. In some areas, one will find farm work going on as usual, washed clothing on the line, lawns being mowed, stores wide open and golf and recreation centers crowded. With public utilities to be maintained for churches, as well as home, it is not easy to draw a hard and fast line for everyone—but the individual Christian can do this for himself. There may sometimes be "an ox in the ditch" but Sunday can be a day of worship regardless.

God our Father, help us to use the Sabbath wisely and well as directed by Thee and Thy Son. In Christ's holy name we pray. Amen.

2 Car Accident In West Monroe Injures Man

Harold Spillers, 29, 122 Lisa Lane, West Monroe, was injured when he drove his auto onto Old Whites Ferry Road from a dirt side road and was struck by an oncoming auto, state police reported yesterday.

They said the accident occurred at 3:55 p.m. Friday. Driver of the other auto was identified as Ronald T. Barfoot, 26, 403 Montgomery, West Monroe.

Officials said following the accident that no charges had been filed in the case. Officers investigating said they were told by St. Francis Hospital, where the injured man was taken, that Spillers was complaining of neck and chest injuries. He was still hospitalized late last night.

Ferriday Negro Freed After He Posts Bail Bond

A Ferriday Negro is free after posting $500 bond, following his arrest on federal charges of mail violation.

David T. Walker, 41, is charged with taking a letter belonging to Eula Mae Dellhoue, also of Ferriday.

U. S. Commissioner Louis D. Smith, who was in charge of a hearing to set Walker's bond, said that the Negro and the woman share a post office box.

Walker is charged with taking an envelope containing a welfare check from the mailbox. He was taken in custody by U. S. Deputy Marshal Russel L. Jordan.

Robbery Here Highlighted Crime Action

Criminal action here yesterday was highlighted by two armed robbery charges, a charge of aggravated assault and two morals cases, authorities reported.

The cases were all investigated by the Monroe Police Department.

The Police Department reported that Ronald Eugene Kendrick, 1009 North Fourth Street, West Monroe and a Delhi man, Richard Thompson, 106 Sycamore Lane, were charged with armed robbery. Kendrick also was charged with aggravated assault.

CHARGED

Charged with crimes against nature were William F. Gates, Rt. 2, and Charles F. Sloval, 3005 North 8th St., both of West Monroe. The Police Department said all the charges stemmed from a drinking spree in a local bar and that the offenses occurred over a levee on the Ouachita River.

Assistant police chief George Wood said last night that police are still investigating the episode which was recorded as occurring shortly after midnight Thursday or in the early morning hours of Friday.

He said further information to the press would not be released until the investigation was completed.

The Ouachita Parish Sheriffs Department was engaged in no action yesterday that was noteworthy, chief criminal deputy Frank Kirby said Friday.

Meanwhile, State Police Troop F here announced that four arrests had been made in connection with driving while intoxicated charges.

Booked by state troopers were Jack L. Hutson, 26, Rt. 3, West Monroe; Clifton Hardin Jr., 27, Arkadelphia, Ark.; Alton Green, 40, Rt. 4, West Monroe; and Tommy Potter Jr., 27, Negro, Apartment 44-G Foster Homes, Monroe.

Sheriff Bailey Grant said Friday that Ouachita parish authorities apprehended A. L. Woodward, 1900 Florida Street, Monroe, and are holding him for Concordia Parish Sheriff's Department.

Woodward is charged with theft of check for $57. His bond was set at $200.

In other action recorded on the books at the Monroe Police Department, Charles M. Spears, 23, Downsville, was booked here on a charge of theft by check after being arrested by Lincoln Parish Sheriff's officials at Ruston.

Breard Fitch, 33, Negro, Collington, was charged by local police with reckless driving.

Ike Golfs During Rain

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower, chronic bronchitis and all, played golf in intermittent rain Friday.

And, to his great delight, he sank at least one 20-foot putt. The club he used to do it was a replica of "Calamity Jane," the famed putter which helped Bobby Jones—one of the greats of the game—score his Grand Slam string of victories in 1930.

The replica putter was a 69th birthday gift to the President last week. It was presented to him in Washington by Jones on behalf of the White House Correspondents Assn.

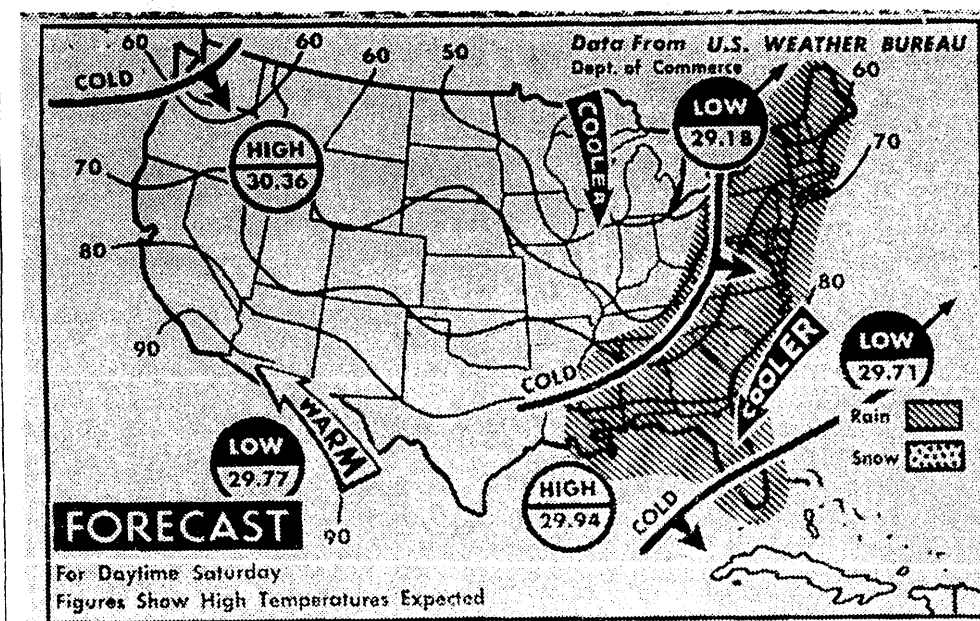

Newsman are barred from the grounds of the Augusta National Golf Club where Eisenhower is vacationing. But a source in a position to know reported that the President used the copy of "Calamity Jane" throughout his round. He played 18 holes.

The President told reporters Thursday that he has developed chronic bronchitis. He said the ailment started about three years ago after he underwent surgery for ileitis.

The bronchitis, the President said, is the reason he tries to get as often as possible to areas of warm sunshine.

Augusta usually is sunny and warm, but not this presidential visit—Eisenhower's 23rd since he was elected in 1952.

The forecast for the Augusta area Saturday is heavier rain than fell Friday.

WEATHER FORECAST — Scattered showers are expected today over much of Northeast while showers or thunderstorms are likely for most of middle and south Atlantic and central and eastern Gulf states. It looks like colder weather in area from Plains eastward to Appalachians; continued mild over eastern states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

New Small Cars To Oust Foreigns

By JACK VANDENBERG UPI Automotive Editor

Detroit (UPI) — The President of the Ford Motor Company said Saturday the introduction of new American-built economy cars eventually will virtually eliminate the use of small foreign cars from basic transportation in the United States.

Henry Ford II told United Press International in an interview that he expected the new American economy cars to slash sales of the European imports by 20 per cent in the next year and to compete to cut them down until only European sports and luxury cars sell in any volume.

The best-selling imports of recent years, the Volkswagens, Renaults etc., will fade before the competition of the new small American cars, he said.

Based on last year's sales figures, elimination of the "basic transportation" group of imports, could eventually cut European car sales in the United States.

South Is Set Apart When It Comes To Eats

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A king-size sweet tooth plus a hankering for fried chicken and grits set Southern taste buds apart from those of other sections.

This difference in palate pleasures makes a great deal of extra work for the Institute of Home Economics in the Agriculture Department, which keeps busy trying to find out what people like to eat.

This difference is true only of low-income appetites. As the individual Southerner gets wealthier, his tastes change and, coupled with the fact that he can spend more money on food, he pretty much eats the same things as his counterpart in New York or Butte.

The Deep South states, where the sweet tooth-chicken-grits combination is most prevalent, include the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida and Arkansas.

The South's reputation for Southern fried chicken is not a myth devised by an enterprising restaurant owner.

Surveys have shown that Southerners not only eat more chicken than people in other parts of the country but eat more chicken than red meat, including the American staple of steak.

Southerners also eat more grains. Where someone living in the North might take potatoes, the southerner prefers rice and also grits.

And for sweet stuff, the South is far ahead of the rest of the country. Much of it is the form of jams and jellies. But the habit of guzzling soft drinks to ward off the heat also boosts the percentages.

Southerners drink less milk and eat less cheese, fruits, vegetables and eggs. They eat more dry beans, peas and nuts, and use more fats and oils.

The institute's latest effort is a low-cost food plan applicable to the South.

An overall plan, good enough for the rest of the nation, has been out for some time. But there had to be a special one for Dixie, taking into account the Southern preferences.

Little Four Holds Shortest Meet On Record

VADUZ, Liechtenstein (UPI)—Europe's Little Four Friday held the shortest summit conference on record and added two more miniature states to its alliance aimed at luring tourists and selling stamps.

The meeting started with squabbling over admitting other states to the negotiations among Liechtenstein, Andorra, Monaco, and San Marino. It ended with the Vatican City and Luxembourg to be included in future meetings.

Official tourist agency heads from the four countries proved that they could argue as fiercely as their big neighbors at the Geneva conferences. But they beat by several weeks the time needed to come to agreement by adjourning the same day they started.

Tourism got a boost from plans to issue free pamphlets—"pocket sized," of course. Liechtenstein's Barn Edward Von Falz-Fein said — to help visitors find their way around the countries' acre-

DURING SEPTEMBER

Cost Of Living Hits New High

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government reported Friday that the cost of living rose to a record high in September with prices of all major goods and services except transportation joining in the climb.

But it held out hope of a decline in food prices in October and November, possibly including big reductions in meat prices. Food prices rose three-tenths of one per cent in September, partly because of seasonal increases in meat, eggs and dairy products.

H.E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the steel strike might be causing temporary shortages of some goods. But he was unable to say whether they might lead to price hikes not otherwise expected.

The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index rose to 125.2 in September, four-tenths of an index point higher than in August. The Index, which uses 1947-49 average prices as a base of 100, has risen in five of the past six months. It fell slightly in August after reaching 124.9 in July.

The September increase meant a wage boost for 1,236,000 workers whose pay is tied to the price index by labor-management contracts.

About 850,000 railroad and railway express employees will get increases of three cents an hour. Also sharing in the boost are aircraft employees at Douglas, McDonnell, Northrop, and Hayes and electrical workers at Sylvania, all of whom will get one cent an hour.

General Electric employees will get pay increases of one-half of one per cent.

The Labor Department also reported that the take-home pay of the average factory worker with three dependents increased by 5 cents to $80.21 a week last month. This was about $2.75 higher than a year earlier.

The Department said food, housing, medical care and personal services all cost more in September. A less-than-seasonal drop in fresh fruit and vegetable prices failed to offset rises in other foods. Restaurant meals rose two-tenths of one per cent.

Housing costs rose three-tenths of one per cent, reflecting higher prices for natural gas, coal, home furnishings, bedroom suites and toasters.

Rents continued to rise with an increase of one-tenth of one per cent. Clothing costs increased, partly because of the appearance of new fall and winter garments. Movie admissions and prices of television sets also advanced.

Hospitalization insurance rates rose in New York and Minneapolis, along with increases in medical fees and drug costs. Higher prices for men's haircuts were reported in Baltimore, Atlanta and San Francisco.

Transportation costs dropped two-tenths of one per cent. Auto dealers raised prices on new cars, but they were offset by reductions on gasoline and on 1959 model cars as dealers tried to clear their floors for 1960 versions.

Bomb Blasts Archbishop's Residence

LA PLATA, Argentina (AP)—A powerful bomb late Friday night blew off the front of the home of Archbishop Antonio J. Plaza, who recently asked for a peaceful return of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron to Argentina.

The blast was 100 feet from La Plata's cathedral.

Msgr. Plaza, an erstwhile attacker of Peron, recently said he prayed for his return to Argentina. Peron has been living in exile in the Dominican Republic.

The archbishop's meetings with Peronista followers were criticized by political and even Roman Catholic circles, which claimed he was mingling religion with politics.

Monroe Student Selected Queen

A 19-year-old Monroe sophomore, Kathy Ann Talton, was named tonight as queen of Homecoming at Northeast.

Ann Edwards, 21, a senior, also from Monroe, was elected as maid of honor for Northeast's 27th annual Homecoming celebration on Saturday, October 31.

Five other coeds were named to the Homecoming court by popular vote of students in a day-long election. The winners were announced at a pep rally at the school Friday night.

Miss Talton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Talton, 204 Sherrouse, will be crowned in half-time ceremonies on Homecoming day.

MAIDS

Those who were named as maids in the court are Sandra Edwards, 19, a freshman from Monroe, younger sister of the maid of honor; Margaret Green, a senior from Ferriday; Linda Lavender, 105 S. First, West Monroe, a freshman; Wanda Stevenson, a sophomore from Rayville; and Jean Williams, a senior from Tallulah.

Ann and Sandra Edwards are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Edwards, 406 Lakeshore Dr. The queen and the six members of her court were selected from a list of 16 coeds nominated by the football team and the Student Council. The crowning of the queen will come during the half-time ceremonies at the Northeast-Southwestern Louisiana Institute football game Homecoming afternoon.

Others who had been nominated were: Clarice Brown, 1013 S. First, Monroe; Julia LeBlanc, Erath; Louise Bingham, Clayton, La.; Bobby Earle, Winnsboro; Barbara Elliott, 115 S. ## Bomb Blasts Archbishop's Residence

LA PLATA, Argentina (AP)—A powerful bomb late Friday night blew off the front of the home of Archbishop Antonio J. Plaza, who recently asked for a peaceful return of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron to Argentina.

The blast was 100 feet from La Plata's cathedral.

Msgr. Plaza, an erstwhile attacker of Peron, recently said he prayed for his return to Argentina. Peron has been living in exile in the Dominican Republic.

The archbishop's meetings with Peronista followers were criticized by political and even Roman Catholic circles, which claimed he was mingling religion with politics.

Robbery Here Highlighted Crime Action

Criminal action here yesterday was highlighted by two armed robbery charges, a charge of aggravated assault and two morals cases, authorities reported.

The cases were all investigated by the Monroe Police Department.

The Police Department reported that Ronald Eugene Kendricks, 1009 North Fourth Street, West Monroe and a Delhi man, Richard Thompson, 106 Sycamore Lane, were charged with armed robbery. Kendricks also was charged with aggravated assault.

CHARGED

Charged with crimes against nature were William F. Gates, Rt. 2, and Charles F. Stovall, 3005 North 8th St., both of West Monroe. The Police Department said all the charges stemmed from a drinking spree in a local bar and that the offenses occurred over a levee on the Ouachita River.

Assistant police chief George Wood said last night that police are still investigating the episode which was recorded as occurring shortly after midnight Thursday or in the early morning hours of Friday.

He said further information to the press would not be released until the investigation was completed.

The Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department was engaged in no action yesterday that was noteworthy, chief criminal deputy Frank Kirby said Friday.

Meanwhile, State Police Troop F here announced that four arrests had been made in connection with driving while intoxicated charges.

Booked by state troopers were Jack L. Hutson, 26, Rt. 3, West Monroe; Clifton Hardin Jr., 27, Arkadelphia, Ark.; Alton Green, 40, Rt. 4, West Monroe; and Tommy Potter Jr., 27, Negro, Apartment 44-G Foster Homes, Monroe.

Sheriff Bailey Grant said Friday that Ouachita parish authorities apprehended A. L. Woodward, 1300 Florida Street, Monroe, and are holding him for Concordia Parish Sheriff's Department.

Woodward is charged with theft of check by $57. His bond was set at $200.

In other action recorded on the books at the Monroe Police Department, Charles M. Spears, 23, Downsville, was booked here on a charge of theft by check after being arrested by Lincoln Parish Sheriff's officials at Ruston.

Breard Fitch, 33, Negro, Colington, was charged by local police with reckless driving.

During Rain

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower, chronic bronchitis and all, played golf in intermittent rain Friday.

And, to his great delight, he sank at least one 20-foot putt. The club he used to do it was a replica of "Calamity Jane," the famed putter which helped Bobby Jones—one of the greats of the game—score his Grand Slam string of victories in 1930.

The replica putter was a 69th birthday gift to the President last week. It was presented to him in Washington by Jones on behalf of the White House Correspondents Assn.

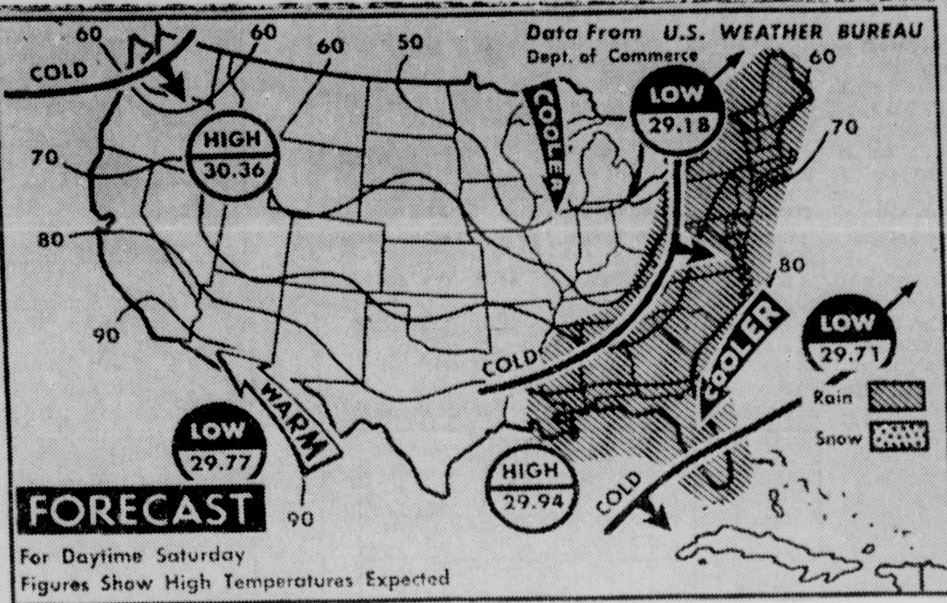

Newsmen are barred from the grounds of the Augusta National Golf Club where Eisenhower is vacationing. But a source in a position to know reported that the President used the copy of "Calamity Jane" throughout his round. He played 18 holes.

The President told reporters Thursday that he has developed chronic bronchitis. He said the ailment started about three years ago after he underwent surgery for ileitis.

The bronchitis, the President said, is the reason he tries to get as often as possible to areas of warm sunshine.

Augusta usually is sunny and warm, but not this presidential visit—Eisenhower's 23rd since he was elected in 1952.

The forecast for the Augusta area Saturday is heavier rain than fell Friday.

New Small Cars To Oust Foreigners

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI)—The President of the Ford Motor Company said Saturday the introduction of new American-built economy cars eventually will virtually eliminate the use of small foreign cars from basic transportation in the United States.

Henry Ford II told United Press International in an interview that he expected the new American economy cars to slash sales of the European imports by 20 per cent in the next year and to continue to cut them down until only European sports and luxury cars sell in any volume.

The best-selling imports of recent years, the Volkswagens, Renaults etc., will fade before the competition of the new small American cars, he said.

Based on last year's sales figures, elimination of the "basic transportation" group of imports, could eventually cut European car sales in the United States.

South Is Set

Apart When It Comes To Eats

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A king-size sweet tooth plus a hankering for fried chicken and grits set Southern taste buds apart from those of other sections.

This difference in palate pleasures makes a great deal of extra work for the Institute of Home Economics in the Agriculture Department, which keeps busy trying to find out what people like to eat.

This difference is true only of low-income appetites. As the individual Southerner gets wealthier, his tastes change and, coupled with the fact that he can spend more money on food, he pretty much eats the same things as his counterpart in New York or Butte.

The Deep South states, where the sweet tooth-chicken-grits combination is most prevalent, include the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida and Arkansas. The South's reputation for fried chicken is not a myth devised by an enterprising restaurant owner.

Surveys have shown that Southerners not only eat more chicken than people in other parts of the country but eat more chicken than red meat, including the American staple of steak. Southerners also eat more grains. Where someone living in the North might take potatoes, the Southerner prefers rice and also grits.

And for sweet stuff, the South is far ahead of the rest of the country. Much of it is the form of jams and jellies. But the habit of guzzling soft drinks to ward off the heat also boosts the percentages.

Southerners drink less milk and eat less cheese, fruits, vegetables and eggs. They eat more dry beans, peas and nuts, and use more fats and oils.

The institute's latest effort is a low-cost food plan applicable to the South.

An overall plan, good enough for the rest of the nation, has been out for some time. But there had to be a special one for Dixie, taking into account the Southern preferences.

Little Four Holds Shortest Meet On Record

VADUZ, Liechtenstein (UPI)—Europe's Little Four Friday held the shortest summit conference on record and added two more miniature states to its alliance aimed at luring tourists and selling stamps.

The meeting started with squabbling over admitting other states to the negotiations among Liechtenstein, Andorra, Monaco, and San Marino. It ended with the Vatican City and Luxembourg to be included in future meetings.

Official tourist agency heads from the four countries proved that they could argue as fiercely as their big neighbors at the Geneva conferences. But they beat by several weeks the time needed to come to agreement by adjourning the same day they started.

Tourism got a boost from plans to issue free pamphlets—"pocket sized, of course," Liechtenstein's Barn Edward Von Falz-Fein said—to help visitors find their way around the countries' acreages.

American manufacturers, he said, unquestionably will expand their production facilities in various foreign countries to produce cars specifically designed for the foreign markets. This expansion in plant facilities in foreign countries will be used to make up for the loss of sales of American-made cars to these countries.

Ford said he believed the foreign car invasion of the American market would be halted because American producers were now offering cars to meet every need of the American public.

Because of this blanket coverage of the American market, Ford said he did not anticipate any future change in the number of cars offered to the American public.

If there is any change, it will be a contraction, not an expansion, he said.

"I don't think there will be any more new types of automobiles, in the sense of economy cars, offered by the industry in the future," he said. "There may well be some shifting of emphasis in various lines, but no new concepts."

Other manufacturers might adopt the concept of Ford's Thunderbird and add a car similar to it to their lines but this would merely be more widespread offerings of the same type of car, not the offering of a new type car, he said.

The only possible exception Ford foresaw to his statement about no more new types of cars—and that was a slim one—was the addition of a two-passenger luxury car, similar to the Thunderbird which Ford built in 1957.

"There may be a market for a two-passenger luxury car in the future, but I don't believe there is today," Ford said. "With the public as economy conscious as it is now, I don't believe enough motorists would be willing to sacrifice the added utility of a four-passenger car for the slight savings involved in building a two-passenger model."

DURING SEPTEMBER

Cost Of Living Hits New High

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government reported Friday that the cost of living rose to a record high in September with prices of all major goods and services except transportation joining in the climb.

But it held out hope of a decline in food prices in October and November, possibly including big reductions in meat prices. Food prices rose three-tenths of one per cent in September, partly because of seasonal increases in meat, eggs and dairy products.

H.E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the steel strike might be causing temporary shortages of some goods. But he was unable to say whether they might lead to price hikes not otherwise expected.

The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index rose to 125.2 in September, four-tenths of an index point higher than in August. The Index, which uses 1947-49 average prices as a base of 100, has risen in five of the past six months. It fell slightly in August after reaching 124.9 in July.

The September increase meant a wage boost for 1,236,000 workers whose pay is tied to the price index by labor-management contracts.

About 850,000 railroad and railway express employees will get increases of three cents an hour. Also sharing in the boost are aircraft employees at Douglas, McDonnell, Northrop, and Hayes and electrical workers at Sylvania, all of whom will get one cent an hour.

General Electric employees will get pay increases of one-half of one per cent.

The Labor Department also reported that the take-home pay of the average factory worker with three dependents increased by 5 cents to $80.21 a week last month. This was about $2.75 higher than a year earlier.

The Department said food, housing, medical care and personal services all cost more in September. A less-than-seasonal drop in fresh fruit and vegetable prices failed to offset rises in other foods. Restaurant meals rose two-tenths of one per cent.

Housing costs rose three-tenths of one per cent, reflecting higher prices for natural gas, coal, home furnishings, bedroom suites and toasters.

Rents continued to rise with an increase of one-tenth of one per cent. Clothing costs increased, partly because of the appearance of new fall and winter garments. Movie admissions and prices of television sets also advanced.

Hospitalization insurance rates rose in New York and Minneapolis, along with increases in medical fees and drug costs. Higher prices for men's haircuts were reported in Baltimore, Atlanta and San Francisco.

Transportation costs dropped two-tenths of one per cent. Auto dealers raised prices on new cars, but they were offset by reductions on gasoline and on 1959 model cars as dealers tried to clear their floors for 1960 versions.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Baptist Group Makes Charge On Gambling

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Baptist Ass'n charged Friday that "commercial gambling exists only in those communities and parishes where the gambling interests have bribed the law-enforcing officials into shameful acquiescence to their nefarious ends." Adopting a report by its public affairs committee, the group said organized gambling "cannot exist when the law-enforcement officials are willing to perform their duty and enforce the laws."

The report pointed out that the state constitution states: "Gambling is a vice and the Legislature shall enact laws to suppress it." The State police, the report said, "in this present administration has not distinguished itself by enforcing the anti-gambling law of our state; on the contrary, its evident unwillingness to shut down organized gambling in such parishes as Jefferson has raised many questions in our mind."

Recent events, the report said, "have conclusively proven both the existence of organized gambling and of the frightening power upon our society." Association members, it said, will seek the support of civic groups in discouraging use of alcoholic beverages at Christmas office parties. The report criticized business operations on Sunday, assailed public school athletic games on Sunday, and asked that Protestant ministers be given a more equitable share of public school speaking appointments.

How To Keep Well

PNEUMONIA IS DIFFERENT TODAY

Pneumonia has increased during the past few months. Many victims have symptoms resembling a severe cold, and were it not for the chest X-ray, diagnosis might have been missed.

There are various types of pneumonia and the modern physician uses the name of the causative germ as a prefix. This explains why we hear more today about pneumococcal and viral pneumonia rather than lobar and bronchial.

Some pneumonias are caused by bacteria and others by viruses. It is important to know the causative agent, because it must be pitted against the antibiotic that will kill the invader in short order. Simple laboratory tests are available to determine whether penicillin or erythromycin will do a better job than the other antibiotics.

Susceptibility to pneumonia is increased whenever resistance is lowered by infection in the nose and throat, fatigue, chilling, and alcoholic intoxication. Some pneumonias are preceded by an ordinary cold and the symptoms that follow are little more than an aggravation of the original condition. Others start abruptly with a chill, high fever, pleurisy, pain, and cough.

Breathing is affected when chest pain is severe; respiration becomes rapid and shallow; with each breath, the sufferer grunts and presses on the affected side (the chest infection). In walking with his hand. Some individuals are extremely ill whereas others are alert and feel well despite pneumonia, the individual is not ill except for a slight cough. The condition is discovered when the chest is X-rayed because of weight loss and unusual fatigue.

Pneumonia was serious prior to the discovery of sulfonamides and penicillin. One out of every three died in 25 to 30 days. A high temperature lasted 7 to 10 days, when the crisis occurred. It began with profuse perspiration, followed by abrupt lowering of temperature and dramatic improvement. It is doubtful whether any one under 30 years of age today has witnessed a pneumonia crisis.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

NERVE TUMORS

D. L. writes: Is the cause of von Recklinghausen's disease known? My son keeps getting pea-like lumps under the skin in various parts of the body that have to be removed by a surgeon.

REPLY

This is a hereditary disorder in which brownish spots appear on the skin and tumors form on nerves over the trunk. There is no treatment except excision of the tumors that press on the nerves.

OVERGROWN SCAR

Mrs. W. writes: My young daughter developed a keloid after a smallpox vaccination. What is the best way to handle this ugly blemish?

REPLY

Let it alone. This overgrown scar tissue can be removed later, if she desires.

CONVULSIONS IN DOGS

G. S. writes: Can dogs get epilepsy? Mine has had a few convulsions.

REPLY

Dogs develop convulsions but they are not necessarily caused by epilepsy. Consult your veterinarian.

EAR INFECTION

H. N. writes: Can a person develop a strep ear instead of a strep throat?

REPLY

Yes, and in many instances the ear disorder represents extension of the infection from the throat. TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—Provide children of all ages with adequate protein.

Secret Agents Hunt Holdup That Wasn't

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret Service agents totting submachine guns raced through the Treasury Department building today, looking for a holdup that didn't happen.

A steady blast of a horn sounded throughout the building at noon, signaling a robbery in the second-floor cash room. It was several minutes before agents and guards learned the alarm was triggered accidentally.

Guards had raced to all exits and shut heavy steel doors, sealing off possible escape routes. Secret Service agents, with headquarters in the building, rushed to the cash room with an awesome arsenal.

There are placards in every Treasury office warning employees to stay at their desks in the event of a burglary alarm. The halls quickly filled with curious workers.

Red Radio Slating Quiz Show

MOSCOW (UPI)—Moscow radio Friday invited American listeners to take part in a quiz show it promises will be fix-proof, even though it will broadcast the answers.

Americans will be asked questions about the Soviet Union and the winners will be awarded prizes ranging from expensive Zorky cameras to Sputnik lapel pins.

There's no chance of a fix, according to Alexander Petrov, one of the team of Russian announcers who will work on the show. Like the others, he speaks excellent English.

"No problem on that score," he assured UPI. "We are going to make the game as fair as we can."

But Petrov also pointed out that the answers to the seven questions could be learned by careful listeners during Moscow Radio's November broadcasts, before the contest closes.

The quiz will go on the air Oct. 30, during Moscow's regular broadcast times to the United States: between 6 p.m. and 1 a.m. e.s.t. for the East Coast and 7 p.m. and midnight p.s.t. for the West Coast.

The questions will be repeated throughout November, and then, and not until then, any American contestants will be told to mail their answers and where to send them.

During the same period, the broadcasts containing the answers will be made.

"The questions won't be too difficult," Petrov said. The prizes are not in the $64,000 class, but some are valuable. There are four Zorky cameras, valued at $200, on the tourist ex-

Boy Ends Solitary Punishment

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — A teen-age boy sentenced to 43 days in solitary confinement on a diet of bread, water, milk and vitamin pills said Friday he has profited by his experience.

"I feel that I have learned what is right," said 17-year-old Richard Lee Babic on his release from the Calhoun County Jail. "I feel the judge gave me a break and mistakes."

The boy was sentenced to the unusual term by Circuit Judge Alfonso A. Magnotta. The judge at the time described the sentence as "shock therapy" to halt the growing crime rate among teen-agers. Magnotta said he intended to hand out similar punishment to first offenders to keep them from being further corrupted by contact with hardened criminals in penitentiaries.

Babic showed no visible ill effects of his frugal diet. He had been examined regularly by a physician during his confinement. But he did say at the news conference arranged by Judge Magnotta that he wanted "something to eat and to go to sleep."

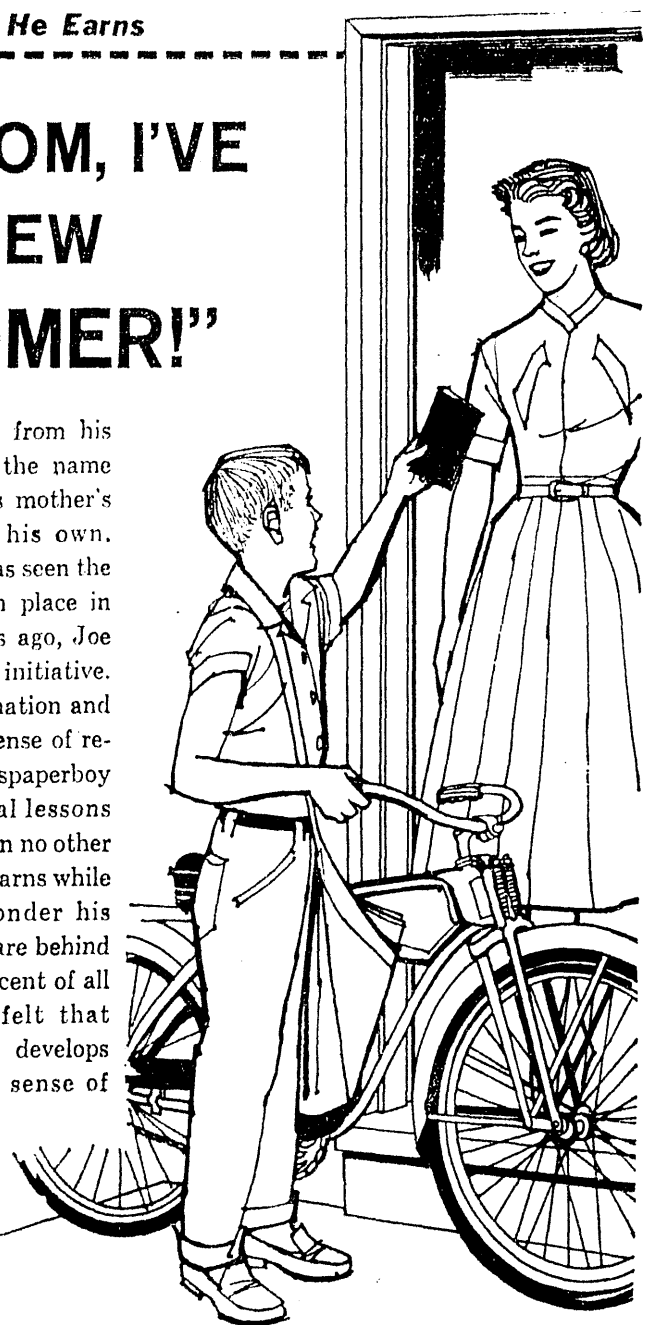

"He's going home to a steak," said the boy's father, Peter Babic, who with Richard's mother, Mary, were on hand to greet him.

"I made up my mind that if I got a break I will go straight and not mess up again," said Richard.

He Learns While He Earns

"HEY, MOM, I'VE GOT A NEW CUSTOMER!"

Whenever Joe returns from his newspaper route with the name of a new customer, his mother's enthusiasm matches his own. There's a reason. She has seen the miracle that has taken place in him. Not many months ago, Joe lacked confidence and initiative. Today, he has determination and poise, coupled with a sense of responsibility. As a newspaperboy he is learning practical lessons which he could acquire in no other way. What is more, he earns while he learns. # Political Groups Noting Upsurge

CHICAGO (AP) — Two conservative political groups met Friday with a feeling that things are going their way—but they differed on what to do about it.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) spelled it out this way: "All over the world, and in this country, there is a political upsurge in the conservative direction."

The Republican Party, he said, is the vehicle for men and women of conservative political leanings and for conservative leadership.

He said U. S. citizens gave evidence of their attitude by supporting a strong labor bill and opposing free spending during the recent session of Congress.

Bridges spoke at a luncheon of the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club. The club has headquarters in Chicago and has no official link with the party. Its aim is to build up a stronger conservative influence in the GOP.

While club members were lunching in the Morrison Hotel, other conservatives were assembling on another floor of the same hotel.

The men and women upstairs gathered for an attempt to start a new political party.

The New Party Rally is scheduled to hold a day-long meeting Saturday. The rally is sponsored by the Independent American, a political action newspaper of 5,000 circulation.

Kent Courtney of New Orleans, publisher of the newspaper, said the conference hope to:

Set up a working committee that will organize state committees.

The state committees, in turn, will seek to place independent presidential electors or independent candidates on state ballots for next year's presidential election.

Courtney, in an interview, acknowledged it was no easy task.

But, he said, there are 2,000 (sic) conservative political organizations going their way—but they differed on what to do about it.

"They now realize," he said, "they have to come in with a complete program, a national platform that will appeal to all sections of the country and a candidate who will personify those things."

Courtney said advance reservations have been received from 35 states.

He said Saturday's meeting will not name candidates or adopt a name.

He also said there will be no effort to reactivate on a national level the Dixiecrats or state's rights parties.

Courtney is the state's rights nominee for governor in Louisiana. He said all the speakers on the Saturday program are dedicated to a new party.

One speaker is J. Bracken Lee, who was a Republican while he was governor of Utah. Now he is an independent and running for mayor of Salt Lake City.

Lee also is chairman of For America, an organization that seeks repeal of the federal income tax. For America supported the state's right ticket of T. Coleman Andrews and Thomas Werdel in the 1956 presidential election. They polled 175,679 votes.

Also on the speaking program are Ethan Stangland, president of the Independent Farmers of Indiana; Ralph A. Shinnaberry, president of the Independent Farmers of Michigan; Tom Anderson of Nashville, Tenn., publisher of the Farm and Ranch Magazine; Dan Smoot of Dallas, a commentator; Dr. Revillo P. Oliver of the University of Illinois faculty; Dr. Medford Evans, secretary of the State's Rights Party of Louisiana; and David M. Molthrop, Washington, D. C., secretary of the National Committee on State Sovereignty.

Edgar Bundy, president of the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club, made it clear his group had no connection with the others.

"The third party movement is doomed to failure," he told a reporter. "The vast majority of voters want the two existing parties to turn conservative, as has happened in West Germany, France and England. We believe the Republican Party offers the best hope for doing this."

Doctor Talks About Heart Disturbance

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — What causes heart attacks? The answer, said Dr. Irving S. Wright Friday, is not as simple as some people would have you believe.

Wright spoke at a symposium on heart disease on the closing day of the 87th annual meeting of the American Public Health Assn. summarizing reports delivered by five doctors.

He noted there is a "strong presumption" that a high level of cholesterol—a fatty substance—in the blood has something to do with heart trouble.

But some individuals have high cholesterol and do not come down with a heart attack, added the doctor. Obviously, he said, there are other, unknown factors in the makeup of these persons that tend to neutralize the cholesterol.

High blood pressure is still another example. Most medical men will agree that hypertension is a contributory factor in cases of heart disease.

But Wright, a professor of medicine at Cornell Medical School, told of one of his patients who has had extremely high blood pressure (240-130) for the past 15 years.

This woman is 80 years old, a great-grandmother four times and "has never had any coronary trouble or evidence of a stroke," he said.

Another area in which Wright feels more research is necessary is smoking.

While he noted that smoking of cigarettes, cigars or a pipe does cause a constriction of blood vessels, he said other factors have to be taken into consideration before a definite relationship between smoking and heart disease can be established.

This tense kind of life may have a great deal more to do with an eventual heart attack than the smoking itself, Wright suggested.

Despite far-flung individual exceptions to the rule, however, Wright and the other panelists emphasized that there does seem to be a connection between heart disease and over-eating of fatty foods, excessive smoking, a tense mode of living and high blood pressure.

Italy Wants End To Big Power Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Italy told the United Nations Friday elimination of the big power veto must accompany acceptance of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's total disarmament plan.

Egidio Ortona, Italy's permanent U. N. representative, raised the prospect of drastic U. N. Charter revision during the disarmament debate in the 82-nation Political Committee.

The big power veto was written into the U. N. Charter in San Francisco 13 years ago. It gave the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China power to kill with a single vote major proposals in the Security Council, the U. N.'s highest organ.

Since then the Soviet Union has cast 87 vetoes to block Council action, far more than any other big power. This has given rise to criticism, especially from the smaller nations, that the veto has virtually paralyzed the Council.

Ortona asserted that the Charter was drafted in a world where only partial disarmament measures were contemplated.

He said the Security Council and the General Assembly would have no way to cope with violations of disarmament agreements unless the Charter was revised.

If U. N. member states abide by total disarmament, he said, they would have no way to put at the disposal of the United Nations any armed contingent to be used against a possible aggressor.

"A total and general disarmament thus implies important revisions of the Charter," he added.

"When such changes take place the present right of veto would have to be revised since it is based on a concept of pre-emptive military power which would no longer exist."

The exercise of the veto on possible disarmament agreement violations would not be justified "as it would bear on a field in which rights and duties should be equal for all," he declared.

Three Cities Vying For World's Fair

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., all laid claim Friday to being the best place for a World's Fair in 1964.

Spokesmen for the three cities appeared before a presidential commission to plead for White House endorsement of their claims. The federal government is not underwriting the proposed fair but its recommendation would carry weight with the 22-nation International Bureau of Expositions.

Many countries will not participate in a fair unless it has bureau sanction.

Before passing on the claims of the contesting cities, the commission said it must decide whether a World's Fair in 1964 is feasible. Representatives of Seattle, Wash., urged that it be put off a while.

Seattle is planning a big scientific fair, the "Century 21 Exposition," for April 21-Oct. 21, 1962 and it fears that another major exposition coming soon afterward would detract from its effort.

Joseph E. Gandy, president, and Ewen C. Dingwall, director of the Seattle fair, contended that the interval between major expositions "should be substantially longer than two years," in fairness to all the participants.

Seattle told the commission that about 30 foreign countries are expected to take part in the Seattle exposition and that "very significant participation by American industry" also is expected.

The advisory commission, which is headed by Minneapolis businessman Harry W. Bullis, said it would take this into consideration in making its recommendations to President Eisenhower. The other commission members are Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, former secretary of commerce, and Aksel Nielsen of Denver, a businessman and fishing companion of President Eisenhower's.

New York City's case was presented by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican, Mayor Robert Wagner, a Democrat, and the state's two Republican senators Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating.

The New Yorkers questioned whether any other city could raise the 500 million dollars they figure the fair would cost and could accommodate the 40 to 60 million visitors they estimate it would attract.

The cities bidding for the fair propose to finance it through private subscription.

Rockefeller called New York "The showplace of the nation" and said it is experienced in such matters, having conducted a World's Fair in 1939-40. He also mentioned that it is headquarters of the United Nations.

Javits and Keating noted that 1964 will mark the 300th anniversary of New York's founding.

Los Angeles, presenting its case through J. A. Smith of the California Fair Corp., said: "If we want to impress the world with this fair, we should show the best and not the oldest."

Smith said Southern California has created "the highest standard of American life and development—recreation-wise, industry-wise, and homesite-wise."

Robert E. McLaughlin, president of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners, presented the case for Washington, D.C. He was supported by the State of Maryland, where the actual fairgrounds would be situated, and the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce.

Steel Lack Causes First Major Cutback

DETROIT (UPI)—Steel shortages caused the first major cutback in automobile production this week, Ward's Automotive Reports said Friday.

The Statistical Agency said car production this week was 111,487 units, a slash of 16 per cent or 22,000 units from last week's total.

But Ward's added that the industry probably will reach about 70 per cent of its projected October production schedule of 640,000 cars.

It said a wildcat strike at Chrysler's East Jefferson Assembly Plant here also cut into the week's production. The strike limited production to about 20 per cent of last week's turnout, said Ward's.

Cutbacks also were noted in truck production, which scheduled an estimated 2,600 units less than last week's 23,954.

Ward's estimated total car-truck production for this week at 132,841, compared with 157,384 last week and 87,228 for the same week a year ago. Total production so far this year was placed at 5,719,498, compared with 3,703,891 for the same period last year.

Three Cities Vying For World's Fair

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C. all laid claim Friday to being the best place for a World's Fair in 1964.

Spokesmen for the three cities appeared before a presidential commission to plead for White House endorsement of their claims. The federal government is not underwriting the proposed fair but its recommendation would carry weight with the 22-nation International Bureau of Expositions.

Many countries will not participate in a fair unless it has bureau sanction.

Before passing on the claims of the contesting cities, the commission said it must decide whether a World's Fair in 1964 is feasible. Representatives of Seattle, Wash., urged that it be put off a while.

Seattle is planning a big scientific fair, the "Century 21 Exposition," for April 21-Oct. 21, 1962 and it fears that another major exposition coming soon afterward would detract from its effort.

Joseph E. Gandy, president, and Ewen C. Dingwall, director, of the Seattle fair, contended that the interval between major expositions "should be substantially longer than two years," in fairness to all the participants.

Gandy told the commission that about 30 foreign countries are expected to take part in the Seattle exposition and that "very significant participation by American industry" also is expected.

The advisory commission, which is headed by Minneapolis businessman Harry W. Bullis, said it would take this into consideration in making its recommendations to President Eisenhower. The other commission members are Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, former secretary of commerce, and Aksel Nielsen of Denver, a businessman and fishing companion of President Eisenhower's.

New York City's case was presented by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican, and the state's two Republican senators Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating.

The New Yorkers questioned whether any other city could raise the 500 million dollars they figure the fair would cost and could accommodate the 40 to 60 million visitors they estimate it would attract.

The cities bidding for the fair propose to finance it through private subscription.

Rockefeller called New York "The showplace of the nation" and said it is experienced in such matters, having conducted a World's Fair in 1939-40. He also mentioned that it is headquarters of the United Nations.

Javits and Keating noted that 1964 will mark the 300th anniversary of New York's founding.

Los Angeles, presenting its case through J. A. Smith of the California Fair Corp., said: "If we want to impress the world with this fair, we should show the best and not the oldest."

Smith said Southern California has created "the highest standard of American life and development — recreation-wise, industry-wise, and homewise."

Robert E. McLaughlin, president of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners, presented the case for Washington, D.C. He was supported by the State of Maryland, where the actual fairgrounds would be situated, and the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce.

Calvin Bird's Brother Scores 66 In One Game

CORBIN, Ky. (AP) — Halfback Billy Bird scored 66 points as Corbin rolled over Williamsburg 75-0 in a high school football game Friday night.
 Bird scored 10 touchdowns and six extra points. His brother, Roger, got the other Redhound touchdown.
 Bird broke the state record of 49 points amassed in 1956 by his brother, Calvin, now a University of Kentucky halfback.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charles (Chuck) Drennon, coach of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Friday night signed a two-year contract to manage the Milwaukee Braves.

PASS INTERCEPTION NULLIFIED—Bastrop halfback Charles Magee goes high into the air just before halftime against West Monroe last night for an apparent pass interception. Interference was ruled and the Rebels were

FIRST CONFERENCE WIN

Rams Upset Rebels, 14-7, In Muddy Triple-A Battle

By JIM CALHOUN

Driving for two fast third quarter touchdowns following Rebel fumbles, the down-trodden Bastrop Rams upset the odds-makers, the weatherman and West Monroe here Friday night with a 14-7 district 1-AAA victory on a rain-drenched field.

It took the oft-beaten Rams less than three minutes of play in the third quarter to tuck their first conference win safely away and send the favored Rebels down to their initial district defeat and disappoint a fine homecoming crowd.

Fullback Don Hardy, the game's leading ground gainer with 103 yards in 14 carries, galloped 38 yards after the Rebels' Don Harrel fumbled to put the Rams out front.

Less than three minutes later, his running mate, Emmett Irby, cracked over from two yards out after the Rams had gained off and set the stage for an uncertain but muddy standoff at intermission.

The Rebs, who came out on top in first downs, 10-6, and rushing, 227 yards to 180, were able to cross the midfield stripe only once in the opening half.

After a punting battle yielded no results, the Confederates stopped a Bastrop drive on their own 20 with 2:58 left in the first half.

An offside penalty set them back five yards and then halfback Dwain Johnston reeled off a sparkling 53-yard spurt before being downed from behind by Ram fullback Douglas Goyne on the invaders' 32. Then the flags began to fall.

Two personal foul penalties and another for clipping sent the Rebs backtracking to their 49 and benched end Fred Hooter.

Rushes by Harrel and Buck Fox advanced the ball 12 yards. Then sub quarterback Roscoe Holcomb lofted a southpaw heave intended for end Jimmy Van Zile on the Ram 31. Interference was called and the hosts were awarded a first down with a minute to go.

With one second left in the half, quarterback Ronnie Farmer over-shot Sidney Wilhite in the end zone and the teams walked to the dressing rooms deadlocked.

With rain still falling intermitently, the Rams got a big boost after the third quarter kickoff. Quarterback Charley Burks, who booted two extra points and averaged 37.6 yards on 6 punts, booted the ball dead on the West Monroe 22.

On the first play Harrel broke into the secondary, lost control of the ball and Leon Martin piled in for the Ram recovery.

On the first play from scrimmage Harrel barreled his way through the middle and slanted to the right, eluded two tacklers on the ten and scored standing up. Burks converted to make it 7-0.

It took the Rebs two plays to get rid of the ball following the kickoff. Fullback John Covington, who moved for 35 yards in 6 carries for the Rebels, hit the middle for two. Then halfback John Moses burst through the line, lost the ball and Hardy dropped on it on the 37.

Irby broke loose on a 28-yard scamper to move the ball into scoring position, then seconds later crashed over from two yards out. Burks again split the posts.

West Monroe finally broke the scoring ice late in the final stanza after a 90-yard push. Covington dashed 18 yards and Farmer passed to Van Zile for 35 yards in the big plays of the march. Covington capped it off with a one-yard touchdown plunge over right tackle.

Moses kicked the extra point. Linebacker Tojo Green, tackles Glen Bell and Ken Wilson and center Burch LaBrano headed the West Monroe defensive effort.

End Gary Cox and guards Leon Martin and Bobby Coston defended brilliantly for Bastrop.

The Rebels contained district 1-AAA top scorer Jerry Hollis, holding him to 32 yards in 10 carries but Irby and Hardy took up slack where he left off.

Johnston gained 60 yards in four tries for West Monroe and Covington chalked up 35 yards in 6 attempts.

new life on John Moses' bobble.

Winning their first conference game in four tries, Coach Gene Dwyer's Bastrop club now stands at 3-4 for the campaign. West Monroe is now squared away at 1-1 in 1-AAA competition and holds a 4-3 mark for the year in overall games.

OPENING PLAY SHOCKER

Auburn Tumbles Hurricanes, 21-6

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Auburn's massive Tigers, strictly a running football team in the past, shocked Miami with a 78-yard touchdown pass on the opening play Friday night and continued to use its deadly, new-found aerial game to whip the Hurricanes 21-6.

Since seventh-ranked Auburn had always disdained use of the pass, the Hurricanes bunched in close as the Tigers lined up for the first running play. Instead Bobby Fran Curci threw 28 yards to Bruce Blair at the 5, then kept and rolled in over right end for the score. An attempted pass for two points failed.

Another big Auburn threat died at the Miami 2 when, on fourth down, the 152-pound Curci charged through to block an attempted field goal by Dyas.

Penalties cost Auburn heavily. The Tigers were caught holding several times and once were set back for unsportsmanlike conduct for a total loss of 125 yards. Miami lost only 15 yards.

Playing before 42,986 fans, the Hurricanes stirred up rumbles of discontent on several occasions by trying to run through the middle of the rugged Auburn line, an obviously futile strategy. When they ran wide, they gained well, racking up a total of 149 yards, compared with Auburn's 204.

Then Hunt spotted Lamar Rawson running in the clear on the Miami 44. He hit him with a flawless throw and Rawson galloped easily in for the score. Ed Dyas kicked the extra point and the Tigers led 7-0 with only 50 seconds gone.

Auburn liked the feel of the new weapon.

In the second period, the sharp-shooting Hunt hit Bobby Wasden with a 19-yard pass and sailed another for 25 yards to Joe Leichtnam. That carried Auburn to the Miami 7 and from there the Hunt went around right end for the touchdown. Dyas again converted.

The third Auburn touchdown was scored in the third period on long ground gainers, with Bryant Harvard racing 19 yards around his left end for the score.

A fumble by John McGeeever, recovered by Jim Vollenweider at the Auburn 39, set up Miami's lone score in the second period.

Halfback Billy Riser ran 65 yards from scrimmage early in the first period for a Crowville touchdown and Burnette Savage ran for the PAT and Crowville led at the half, 7-0.

The entire second half was played in the rain and Crowville's Truman Johnson was tackled for a safety in the third period before Crowville scored again on a 30-yard run by Savage. Penalties gave Crowville three tries for the PAT but they couldn't cash in on any of them.

With about five minutes to go, John Morris rammed one yard for the Holly Ridge TD.

ISLAND TRIUMPHS

ST. JOSEPH, La. (Special) — The Sicily Island Tigers, held scoreless for three quarters, fought from behind with two touchdowns in the last period to defeat Davidson High's Warriors, 13-7, here Friday night.

Charles Miller's flat pass to Albert Krause on a 40-yard play brought Sicily Island the winning touchdown in the waning minutes of the game.

Louis Stockstill had put Davidson in front when his one-yard plunge capping a 70-yard drive by the Warriors in the third quarter, and Ellis Filer ran for the point.

Miller thrilled Island followers in the fourth quarter when he broke away on a scrimmage play and romped 95 yards to score Sicily Island's first touchdown. Krause took a pass from Miller for the point that tied the score.

Davidson led in first downs, 11-8.

WINNSBORO, 33-13

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — Once-beaten class A power Winnsboro scored in every period to trample class B Mangham, 33-13, here last night.

Although Mangham had more first downs in the game, 11 to nine, Winnsboro's Wildcats dominated the game from the second period on.

Winnsboro scored first after intercepting a Mangham pass, the only pass Mangham didn't complete all night, and after a 28-yard run by Allen Parks, fullback J. D. Busby scored from the two. Quarterback Joe Henry passed to end Hines Davis for the PAT.

Mangham scored in the second period but their PAT try was blocked. Donald Adams passed 14 yards to halfback Dennis Evans for the TD.

Winnsboro came back with two more touchdowns in the second period to lead at halftime, 21-6. Allen Parks ran 33 yards for one, Henry passed to Johnny Sisk on a sensational 63-yard play for the other.

FIRST CONFERENCE WIN

Rams Upset Rebels, 14-7, In Muddy Triple-A Battle

By JIM CALHOUN

Driving for two fast third quarter touchdowns following Rebel fumbles, the down-trodden Bastrop Rams upset the oddsmakers, the weatherman and West Monroe here Friday night with a 14-7 district 1-AAA victory on a rain-drenched field.

It took the oft-beaten Rams less than three minutes of play in the third quarter to tuck their first conference win safely away and send the favored Rebels down to their initial district defeat and disappoint a fine homecoming crowd.

Fullback Don Hardy, the game's leading ground gainer with 103 yards in 14 carries, galloped 38 yards after the Rebs' Don Harrel fumbled to put the Rams out front.

Less than three minutes later, his running mate, Emmett Irby, cracked over from two yards out after the Rams had gained new life on John Moses' bobble.

Winning their first conference game in four tries, Coach George Dervely's Bastrop club now stands at 3-4 for the campaign. West Monroe is now squared away at 1-1 in 1-AAA competition and holds a 4-3 mark for the year in overall games.

A steady downpour began just seconds before the opening kickoff, the Rams got a big boost after the third quarter kickoff. Quarterback Charley Burks, who booted two extra points and averaged 37.6 yards on 6 punts, booted the ball dead on the West Monroe 22.

On the first play from scrimmage Hardy barreled his way through the middle and slanted to the right, eluded two tacklers on the ten and scored standing up. Burks converted to make it 7-0.

It took the Rebs two plays to get rid of the ball following the kickoff. Fullback John Covington, who moved for 35 yards in 6 carries for the Rebels, hit the middle for two. Then halfback John Moses burst through the line, lost the ball and Hardy dropped on it on the 37.

Irby broke loose on a 28-yard scamper to move the ball into scoring position, then seconds later crashed over from two yards out. Burks again split the posts.

West Monroe finally broke the scoring ice late in the final stanza after a 90-yard push. Covington dashed 18 yards and Farmer passed to Van Zile for 35 yards in the big plays of the march. Covington capped it off with a one-yard touchdown plunge over right tackle.

Moses kicked the extra point. Linebacker Tojo Green, tackles Glen Bell and Ken Wilson and center Burch LaBrano headed the West Monroe defensive effort.

End Gary Cox and guards Leon Martin and Bobby Coston defended brilliantly for Bastrop.

The Rebels contained district 1-AAA top scorer Jerry Hollis, holding him to 32 yards in 10 carries but Irby and Hardy took up slack where he left off.

Johnston gained 60 yards in four tries for West Monroe and Covington chalked up 35 yards in 6 attempts.

Auburn Tumbles Hurricanes, 21-6

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Auburn's massive Tigers, strictly a running football team in the past, shocked Miami with a 78-yard touchdown pass on the opening play Friday night and continued to use its deadly, new-found aerial game to whip the Hurricanes 21-6.

Since seventh-ranked Auburn had always disdained use of the pass, the Hurricanes bunched in close as the Tigers lined up for the first running play. Instead Bobby Hunt faded back deep and waited patiently as the huge Auburn linemen gave him perfect protection.

Then Hunt spotted Lamar Rawson running in the clear on the Miami 44. He hit him with a flawless throw and Rawson galloped easily in for the score. Ed Dyer kicked the extra point and the Tigers led 7-0 with only 50 seconds gone.

Auburn liked the feel of the new weapon.

In the second period, the sharp-shooting Hunt hit Bobby Wadden with a 19-yard pass and sailed another for 25 yards to Joe Leichtnam. That carried Auburn to the Miami 7 and from there, Hunt went around right end for the touchdown. Dyer again converted.

The third Auburn touchdown was scored in the third period on long ground gainers, with Bryant Harward racing 19 yards around his left end for the score.

A fumble by John McGeeever, recovered by Jim Vollenweider at the Auburn 38, set up Miami's lone score in the second period.

AT SHREVEPORT

Tech, Northwestern Battle In State Fair Tilt Tonight

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special)—A battle for the driver's seat in the Gulf States Conference football race will unfold Saturday night when the Northwestern State College Demons clash with the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs.

Kickoff time is 8 p.m. at Shreveport State Fair Stadium. A crowd of more than 20,000 is expected for the contest, annually played in conjunction with the opening of the Louisiana State Fair.

Tech is a pre-game favorite by virtue of its 3-1 record this season; Northwestern is 2-2-1. The Bulldogs were the preseason choice of GSC coaches to win the circuit crown.

Northwestern has a 1-0 GSC record with a 19-6 victory over McNeese. Tech has also defeated McNeese, 28-0, and added a victory over SLI last week for a 2-0 circuit mark.

Saturday's contest is expected to be a battle involving Tech's highly-touted running backfield and Northwestern's air power.

Northwestern won last year's game, 18-14, with a touchdown pass from Dale Hoffpauir to Billy Jack Booth coming in the final seconds of play. Tech holds a 26-11-4 edge in the series between the two schools dating back to 1909.

The Tech squad started the 1959 season with fairly good strength in the backfield and at ends but with little depth and experience at the quarterback and interior line positions. However, action in four games has been valuable to the team and experience has come in a hurry for some of the Techsters.

For instance, the three Tech quarterbacks began the season with little or no experience. None is a letterman. Taylor McNeel, Pineville junior and a squadman in '58, has been operating with the number one unit and has done the job quite well. Freshmen usually don't see much action with the Canines their first season, but quarterbacks Johnny Hudson, Minden, and Mickey Slaughter, Alexandria, have seen considerable duty in the first four games and have handled themselves credibly.

Out on the ends the Techsters have adequate depth with six lettermen back from last fall and that spot is probably the best manned on the squad. Charlie Garris, Junction City junior, and Jerry Hudson, Springhill junior, will probably be the bulldog starters. Garris was named to the All-GSC second team last fall and Hudson to the third unit.

Only four lettermen were on hand this fall for tackle positions. Seniors Bobby Hinton, Ruston, and Bobby Hudson, Minden, have been the number one pair. There have been good play also by lettermen Herschel Vinyard, Olla sophomore, and senior Rogers Reeves, Minden. Reeves was injured early in the season.

Guards Joe Hinton, Ruston junior, and Don Tippit, Dexter, Mo., sophomore, are the Tech starters who have been called upon for rugged duty in spite of the limited 195 pound weight. They are both lettermen as is guard Monroe Fowler, Delhi senior. Jim Smith, Columbus, Ga., was shifted from end to guard this fall and has turned in some good action at the new spot.

Tech's only letterman for center is Minden junior Jim Campbell. He has been outstanding on both offense and defense and it was Campbell who blocked a punt that led to a Tech TD against Southwestern Louisiana two weeks ago.

Los Angeles'

Lansford Hurt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams' victory chances over Detroit Sunday received a blow Friday when offensive guard Buck Lansford was hospitalized with a ruptured kidney.

A Ram spokesman said the 232-pound veteran may be out of action for a month. Apparently Lansford, a key figure in the team's offense, suffered the injury in the Green Bay game last Sunday.

WEST MONROE DEMON — George Smith, Northwestern State College Demon who played his high school football at West Monroe High, will be making his fourth and final appearance in the Demons' State Fair Classic Saturday night. Smith, a three-year letterman at NSC, will hold down the right end starting berth on the Purple squad which is scheduled to start the game against Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs. The Demons and Bulldogs vie at Shreveport's State Fair Stadium in connection with the opening of the Louisiana State Fair.

TWO JOCKEYS INJURED

Hy-Gain, A Bad Horse To Ride

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — One jockey lay near death in a nearby Berkeley Hospital Friday. Another is recuperating in a San Francisco hospital after 29 days in a coma.

Both were hurt in spills from the same horse, Hy-Gain, in his last two starts.

Frederick Rose, a 27-year-old Panamanian, remained unconscious and in "very critical" condition after suffering a fractured skull Thursday when the 2-year-old colt bore out, clipped another thoroughbred's hooves and went down at Golden Gate Fields.

Also hurt was veteran jockey Merlin Volzke who suffered six fractured ribs.

Hy-Gain was making his first start since the President's Stakes last Sept. 11 at the state fair in Sacramento. He went down in that one, with jockey Peter Tranchina sustaining head injuries. The 23-year-old Italian-born reinsman is now able to get up. His speech, impaired by a partial paralysis, is improving.

George Murphy, steward representing the California Horse Racing Board both at Sacramento and Golden Gate, termed the two accidents "an unfortunate coincidence."

He explained, "In the Sacramento race, Hy-Gain was caught in a terrific traffic jam on the backstretch and fell. It was just one of those accidents which occasionally occur and was not the fault of any rider or any horse."

Green Wave Meets Geo. Tech At N.O.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Georgia Tech's once-beaten Engineers face improbable Tulane Saturday night with the throttle wide open on their bowl-bound express.

Tech rules a solid touchdown favorite over an injury-hampered Green Wave that has won only twice in five outings. And Tech's 7-6 loss to Auburn last week may gear the Engineers to full speed.

Tulane's only hope for a homecoming victory rests principally on the passing arms of quarterbacks Phil Nugent and Bobby Cornett, both of whom have had more than just medium success.

But the Tulane aerial threat may prompt Tech coach Bobby Dodd to take the wraps of ace quarterback Fred Braselton. Tulane coach Andy Pilney rates Braselton high as a passer, but Tech has used his arm sparingly this season.

Tulane will be without the services of regular guard Billy Clements, a big loss since Tech is expected to give the Greene line a real workout on the running of halfbacks Floyd Faucette and Frank Nix.

The Tulane running game will revolve around sophomore halfback Terry Terrebonne, the No. 5 runner in the Southeastern Conference with 244 yards in five games.

Tech's line may prove a tough obstacle for the Tulane running game. In center Maxie Baughan, Tech has one of the nation's top linemen. Baughan earned lineman-of-the-week award from The Associated Press for his play against Tennessee two weeks ago.

A crowd of about 25,000 is expected for the kickoff at 8 p.m. (CST).

Says Crisler Will Accept AFL Position

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit News reports that "the University of Michigan definitely learned Friday it is faced with the problem of finding a replacement for Athletic Director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler."

Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, Michigan president, said at Ann Arbor, however, there was no discussion at a board of regents meeting Friday regarding reports Crisler will quit to become commissioner of a new professional football league.

The News said its information came from a source close to the university's "official family" and that Crisler's acceptance of the offer will be announced Tuesday or Wednesday in New York at a meeting of the American Football League.

In Minneapolis, Crisler said he has not made a decision yet on whether to take the post position if offered.

He told a reporter Thursday he understands any announcement on the American League presidency would come from the "home base." The league is meeting in New York next week.

Crisler said he does not plan to attend the meeting.

Crisler reportedly has been offered a long term contract calling for $80,000 annually. His only public indications that he is interested, however, have been statements that he is giving the offer "serious consideration."

A spokesman for the Minneapolis-St. Paul entry in the league virtually acknowledged that Crisler could have the job if he wants it.

College Footballers Settle Down To Normal Weekend

By JACK CLARY Associated Press Sports Writer

The college football wars settle down to those dog-eat-dog conference battles Saturday with a couple of tasty intersectional games to spice an otherwise normal weekend. Normal, that is, in comparison to the titanic struggles that have matched the nation's top teams the past couple of weeks.

Louisiana State, top-ranked in the Associated Press poll for the 11th straight week going back to the middle of last season, puts its 5-0 record on the line against Florida. LSU has won 17 straight over two seasons and is currently 1-0 in the Southeastern Conference.

Florida, upset by Vanderbilt last week has a 3-1-1 record. However, it could catch the Bayou Bengals looking to next Saturday's clash with Mississippi, a game that will probably decide the SEC title and the trip to the Sugar Bowl.

Mississippi, fourth-ranked this week, and unbeaten in five starts, plays Southwest Conference power Arkansas. The Porkers lost their first Texas last week but are still ranked 10th. They too could catch Ole Miss casting too fervent an eye to the LSU game.

Another SEC game pits Georgia Tech (No. 9) playing Tulane. Tech lost its first in five starts to Auburn a week ago and must keep winning in the conference for title consideration.

In the mid-west second-ranked Northwestern meets twice-beaten Notre Dame at South Bend. The Wildcats have a 4-0 record and will stay atop the Big Ten regardless. However, they still face a quarterback shortage and will probably be without halfback Ron Burton. The Irish are hurting at fullback, with the top three injured, but hope to get more service out of quarterback George Izo and halfback Red Mack.

Eighth-ranked Penn State, with pass wizard Richie Lucas, meets Illinois (No. 13) at Cleveland in a game originally billed as part of a big exposition celebrating the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Though the exposition plans fell through, the game pits the Nittany Lions 5-0 record against a tough Illinois team that has a 3-2 record.

The nation's top defensive team, Syracuse with a 4-0 mark and ranked sixth, plays West Virginia, 3-2 in the East's top game. Texas (5-0) plays winless Rice (0-2-2) in the Southwest's big rumble. The Longhorns, leading the Southwest Conference, are ranked third in the nation after toppling Arkansas last weekend, but must play without injured fullback Don Allen.

Southern California (No. 5), the best in the Far West Five with a 1-0 mark, is playing for record and not for roses as it meets Stanford in a conference game. The Trojans have a 4-0 mark highlighted by their crushing offense and magnificent defense that will have to stop Dick Norman, the nation's top passer, and Chris Burford, the top pass receiver.

Television viewers can watch Iowa and Purdue battle in color in a Big Ten game beginning at 2:15 p.m. EST over the NBC network.

Four of the remaining major unbeaten are busy. Oregon (4-0) meets Washington, which lost its first game to Southern Cal last week, at Portland, Ore. Penn (4-0) meets Navy, loser of its last three, in Philadelphia; and North Texas State (4-0) plays Houston for the Missouri Valley leadership. Both a 2-0 in the conference.

Yale, 4-0 and the nation's only unscored-upon team, plays winless Colgate.

The 50th Little Brown Jug game will be played at Minnesota with both Michigan and the Gophers having 1-3 records.

In the rest of the conferences, the story is somewhat different. Oklahoma and Kansas, both 2-0 in the Big Eight, meet for the lead with the Sooners putting their 74 consecutive conference games without a loss on the line.

Ole Miss' 3-0 SEC lead is safe with its outside game and leader Georgia plays winless Kentucky.

Furman and The Citadel, both 2-0, battle each other for the Southern Conference lead.

Wyoming's 4-0 Skyline Conference record is the target of Utah State (1-2) while co-leader Utah (2-0) plays Montana State in a non-conference game.

Two other top intersectional clashes in the East pit Colorado State University at Army and Texas Christian at Pitt.

Other Saturday games:

EAST: Marquette at Boston College; Rhode Island at Brown; Holy Cross at Columbia; Dartmouth at Harvard; Bucknell at Lafayette; Cornell at Princeton; Lehigh at Rutgers; Virginia Tech at Villanova.

SOUTH: Richmond at Florida State; Memphis State at Mississippi State; Duke at North Carolina State; Chattanooga at Tennessee; Davidson at Virginia Military; North Carolina at Wake Forest; Washington at William & Mary.

MIDWEST: Drake at Bradley; College of Pacific at Cincinnati; Kansas State at Iowa State; Indiana at Michigan State; Nebraska at Missouri; Wichita at Oklahoma State; Detroit at Tulsa; Ohio State at Wisconsin.

SOUTHWEST: Texas Tech at Southern Methodist; Baylor at Texas A&M; New Mexico State at Texas Western; Hardin-Simmons at West Texas State.

PACIFIC: Colorado at Arizona; Denver at Brigham Young; Oregon State at California; New Mexico at Montana; Idaho at Washington State.

Tigers Await Block After Routing Pels

WATERPROOF, La. (Special)—Waterproof's Tigers look ahead to next Friday's vital district 3-B date at Jonesville against Block after demolishing Southside, 39-6, in a non-district battle at Monroe Thursday.

Block is unbeaten after three games in district 3-B while Waterproof is still in the running for the title with a 2-1 record.

After falling behind, 6-0, when Dickie Fletcher passed 20 yards to Steve Economu for a Southside TD in the first period Thursday Waterproof struck back to take a 13-6 halftime lead and ran away from the flumming Pelicans in the second half.

Bobby Wallace caught a pass from Larry Moss on a 60-yard pass play for the tying touchdown, and Jackie Hopkins sent the Tensas Tigers ahead on a two-yard plunge in the second quarter. Hopkins converted behind his TD.

Mike Martien and Wallace added two touchdowns apiece in the second half, three of them in the third quarter. Martien went across on runs of 72 and 40 yards. Wallace counted on dashes of 43 and 20. Hopkins tallied two more PATS in the last half.

Waterproof got good all around play from Kermit Keys, Vic Mahoney, Tommy Taylor, Edward Berry, Jonan Pippin, and Charlie Fife.

Tech, Northwestern Battle In State Fair Tilt Tonight

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special)—A battle for the driver's seat in the Gulf States Conference football race will unfold Saturday night when the Northwestern State College Demons clash with the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs.

Kickoff time is 8 p.m. at Shreveport State Fair Stadium. A crowd of more than 20,000 is expected for the contest annually played in conjunction with the opening of the Louisiana State Fair.

Tech is a pre-game favorite by virtue of its 3-1 record this season; Northwestern is 2-2-1. The Bulldogs were the preseason choice of GSC coaches to win the circuit crown.

Northwestern has a 1-0 GSC record with a 19-6 victory over McNeese. Tech has also defeated McNeese, 28-0, and added a victory over SLI last week for a 2-0 circuit mark.

Saturday's contest is expected to be a battle involving Tech's highly-touted running backfield and Northwestern's air power.

Northwestern won last year's game, 13-14, with a touchdown pass from Dale Hoffpauir to Billy Jack Booth coming in the final seconds of play. Tech holds a 26-11-4 edge in the series between the two schools dating back to 1909.

The Tech squad started the 1959 season with fairly good strength in the backfield and at ends but with little depth and experience at the quarterback and interior line positions. However, action in four games has been valuable to the team and experience has come in a hurry for some of the Techsters.

For instance, the three Tech quarterbacks began the season with little or no experience. None is a letterman. Taylor McNeel, Pineville junior and a squadman in '58, has been operating with the number one unit and has done the job quite well. Freshmen usually don't see much action with the Canines their first season, but quarterbacks Johnny Hudson, Minden, and Mickey Slaughter, Alexandria, have seen considerable duty in the first four games and have handled themselves credibly.

Out on the ends the Techsters have adequate depth with six lettermen back from last fall and that spot is probably the best manned on the squad. Charlie Garris, Junction City junior, and Jerry Hudson, Springhill junior, will probably be the bulldog starters. Garris was named to the All-GSC second team last fall and Hudson to the third unit.

Only four lettermen were on hand this fall for tackle positions. Seniors Bobby Hinton, Ruston, and Bobby Hudson, Minden, have been the number one pair. There has been good play also by lettermen Herschel Vinyard, Olla sophomore, and senior Rogers Reeves, Minden. Reeves was injured early in the season.

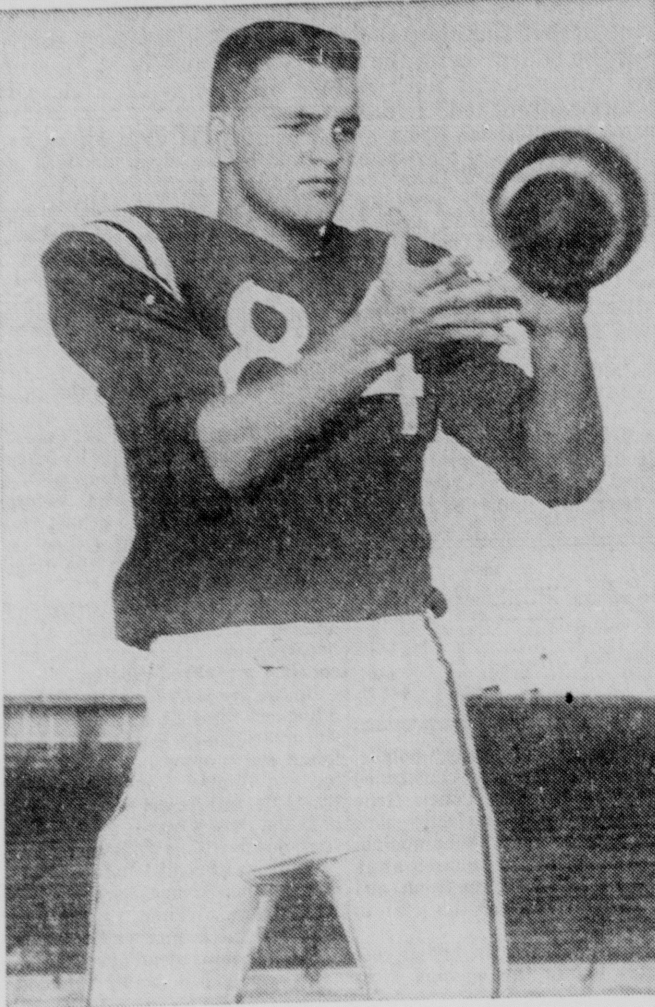

Guards Joe Hinton, Ruston junior, and Don Tippit, Dexter, Mo., sophomore, are the Tech starters who have been called upon for rugged duty in spite of the limited 195 pound weight. They are both lettermen as is guard Monroe Fowler, Delhi senior. Jim Smith, Columbus, Ga., was shifted from end to guard this fall and has turned in some good action at the new spot.

Tech's only letterman for center is Minden junior Jim Campbell. He has been outstanding on both offense and defense and it was Campbell who blocked a punt that led to a Tech TD against Southwestern Louisiana two weeks ago.

Los Angeles' Lansford Hurt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams' victory chances over Detroit Sunday received a blow Friday when offensive guard Buck Lansford was hospitalized with a ruptured kidney.

A Rams spokesman said the 232-pound veteran may be out of action for a month. Apparently Lansford, a key figure in the team's offense, suffered the injury in the Green Bay game last Sunday.

WEST MONROE DEMON — George Smith, Northwestern State College Demon who played his high school football at West Monroe High, will be making his fourth and final appearance in the Demons' State Fair Classic Saturday night. Smith, a three-year letterman at NSC, will hold down the right end starting berth on the Purple squad which is scheduled to start the game against Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs. The Demons and Bulldogs vie at Shreveport's State Fair Stadium in connection with the opening of the Louisiana State Fair.

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — One jockey lay near death in a nearby Berkeley Hospital Friday. Another is recuperating in a San Francisco hospital after 29 days in a coma.

Both were hurt in spills from the same horse, Hy-Gain, in his last two starts.

Pictures of the race here showed that Hy-Gain, with Rose aboard, bore out on the stretch turn, tripped and went down. Volzke's mount, Brass Section, tumbled over him. Again neither horse nor rider was held at fault.

Rose, one of the few Negro jockeys on U.S. tracks, was knocked unconscious. The race was only his second riding engagement since his arrival here from Panama three weeks ago. His wife arrived by plane from New York Friday and was at his hospital bedside. Doctors decided against immediate brain surgery because of the jockey's condition.

Hunting Will Continue In Game Areas

Squirrel hunting will continue on the Union Parish Game Management Area near Farmerville and the Jackson-Bienville Game Management area near Jonesboro until next Friday.

Biologists reminded that both areas are open to the general public for hunting.

The Caldwell Game Management Area near Columbia and the Chicago Mills Game Management Area near Winnsboro closed yesterday after a week-long hunt.

Joe L. Herring, Monroe district biologist, reported the hunting on the Union area has been better than anytime during the past three years.

Some 135 hunters checked in on the area last Saturday and Sunday and averaged a little better than two squirrels per hunter. Herring said the average picked up through the week with each hunter averaging three squirrels. The limit is six.

Black Knight, Lions Play Northeast Here

Crucial Battle For Tribesmen

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Southeastern's Lions, spurred on by vaunted half-back C. J. Alexander, the Black Knight of Donaldsonville, clash with floundering Northeast tonight at Brown Stadium in a crucial Gulf States Conference encounter for the Indians.

With one GSC loss already hung around their necks, the Indians must win tonight to stay within sight of the conference championship. Kickoff time is slated for 8 p.m.

Northeast, getting off to one of its slowest starts in years, dropped the first three games of the season before finally cracking the win column against Arlington State, 26-21. Then McNeese followed with a 21-6 thumping last weekend in the Tribe's initial conference action.

Powered by Alexander, all-GSC and Mid-Bracket All-America last year, the Lions have fared somewhat better, breaking even in four contests. SLC opened with an 18-13 decision over GSC foe Southwestern, tumbled before East Texas State and Mississippi Southern and bounced back to beat Florence State, 28-21, last Saturday.

Alexander, in 55 carries this year, has gained 471 yards for an average of 8.4 per carry and 117 per game from the Lions' winged-T offense. The 192-pound senior ranks second among GSC scorers with 22 points.

Of the 912 net yards rushing the Lions have gained, Alexander has accounted for over 58 per cent of the total.

Elbert Harris, a long-distance thrower, will handle the SLC quarterback post. Although completing only 7 of 19 attempts Harris has thrown for 203 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Speedy fullback Jim Hanley has averaged 3.4 yards every time he carried the ball and halfbacks Willie Rhodes and Talmadge Lee average slightly over four yards. Lee, a freshman, scored SLC's first touchdown against Florence State last week.

The Lions have depth in the forward wall with two fine centers, Jack Benson and John Andre, and a pair of outstanding terminals, Oscar Lofton and Charles Berg. The sophomore Berg grabbed a pass and rambled 72 yards for the winning touchdown against Florence. Lofton was named to the all-GSC second team in 1958. Lion Mentor Stanley Galloway is now in his ninth year as head coach at Southeastern. During that time his club has lost only once to Northeast, that coming last season.

Northeast head coach Jack Rowan insists that there's nothing wrong with the Redskins that sharper blocking and tackling couldn't cure. Drills on fundamentals have been the order of the day in the Indian camp throughout the week.

Northeast hopes have been bolstered by the return to starting form of speedster Joe Thraikill. The 190-pound Oklahoman was injured in the opening game and hasn't played since.

If Thraikill doesn't get the starting call tonight, Levy Redden, the Tribe's second leading ground gainer, and Jim Laudadio will open at halfback.

Quarterback Bob Randel, coming into his own as a passer of late, and fullback Stewart Stover round out the Comanche backfield.

Randel who saw little action as a junior last season, has connected on 16 of 31 passes for 174 yards and 2 touchdowns and has shown added poise in his last few outings. Stover, the Indians' 3- and 4-yard man, has three scores to his credit while leading the squad with 177 yards gained in 59 carries.

Also expected to see action with the pigskin are quarterbacks Curtis Cook, Malcolm Brewer and John O'Conner and fullbacks Dave Barnes and Bill Koerner. Halfback Terry Reeves, a starter most of the year, is still sidelined with a burst blood vessel.

In the line, the Indians will probably lead off with Pete Covington and Jerry Head at ends, Bill Broom and Delmas Thorne at tackles, Alfred Feeney and Wally Cox at guards and Gary Marchbank at center.

Dressen To Be New Brave Pilot?

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charles (Chuck) Dressen, who piloted the Brooklyn Dodgers to National League pennants in 1952 and '53, was reported Friday in line to become the new manager of the Milwaukee Braves.

An authoritative source told The Associated Press that Dressen, now a coach with the Dodgers in Los Angeles, will be named Saturday to succeed Fred Haney, who resigned three weeks ago. Executive Vice President Birdie Tebbetts said earlier in the week that a new manager would be selected "by Saturday."

The Braves' official family remained silent Friday, but a news conference was in the works for late Saturday afternoon.

Dressen could not be reached for comment. His wife said on the West Coast that he was "out fishing."

"I can truthfully say," said Mrs. Dressen, "that the Milwaukee club has not contacted Charlie at all."

Was there a chance Dressen might show up in Milwaukee for a possible press conference there Saturday?

"I doubt it. He said he'd be gone a couple of days. He certainly didn't say anything about Milwaukee," said Mrs. Dressen.

Dressen was the choice of Milwaukee owner Lou Ferrin after Tebbetts stood fast in his desire to remain in the front office.

Both Dressen and Tebbetts are of the same baseball breed—fiery and daring. Both are in far contrast to Haney, who played the game cautiously and conservatively.

Dressen, 61, is a former National League infielder with an extensive background as a manager. He piloted the Cincinnati Reds in the 30s and was summoned by the Dodgers in 1951 after two fine seasons with Oakland in the Pacific Coast League.

Some Fans Are Just Plain Slow

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Some 16,590 tickets for the World Series that never was still are in the hands of fans, the Milwaukee Braves said Friday in an appeal for their return.

The strips, for the three games that might have been played in Milwaukee this fall between the Braves and the Chicago White Sox, will be redeemed at face value.

There still are a dozen tickets sold for another series that never was: The 1936 event when the Dodgers edged out Milwaukee on the last week-end of the season.

And earlier this year, the Braves refunded cash for two tickets to the seventh game of the 1948 Series at Boston.

Conley NL's Top Comeback Player

BOSTON (AP)—"It makes me feel good all over," tall, beaming Gene Conley said Friday when he learned he has been voted the National League Comeback Player of the Year.

The 6-foot-8 right-handed pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies who is a basketball major leaguer as well received 58 of the 168 votes cast in the Baseball Writers Assn. of America poll.

"When you down and almost counted out with a championship team, how low can you get?" Conley remarked about his 1958 season when he wound up with a 0-6 record with the National League champion Milwaukee Braves. "I haven't been satisfied yet. But I could pitch but I still had to prove it—I guess I have."

Conley won 12 and lost seven while beating every other club in the league for the last place Phils. A broken finger in mid-August prevented him from boosting his mark. He had a 3.00 earned run average.

Gone was traded to Philadelphia last spring after helping the Boston Celtics win the National Basketball Assn. crown.

"I like both baseball and basketball," Conley remarked as he concluded a workout with the Celtics. "I like to keep working. After basketball last spring I trained for 10 days in Florida and felt ready to play baseball when I got North."

The 23-year-old Conley says he has goals in both sports.

Baseball—"In my first year in the minors I won 20 games. I said right then I'd never be satisfied until I won 20 in the majors. I haven't been satisfied yet. But a 20-game season remains my goal and even if I have to throw an inshoot and an outshoot on the same pitch I'm out to do it."

Basketball—"I hope wherever Coach Red Auerbach uses me it will help the ball club retain its championship."

Conley's nearest rivals in the balloting were two members of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers. Outfielder Wally Moon and Duke Snider received 45 and 22 votes, respectively.

Other players who drew support were Don Newcombe, Gus Bell and Vada Pinson of Cincinnati; Gil Hodges of Los Angeles; Harvey Haddix of Pittsburgh; Gene Cimoli of St. Louis; Ed Mathews and Johnny Logan of Milwaukee and San Francisco's Sam Jones.

MEMPHIS (AP) — Arkansas and undefeated Mississippi, two "top ten" titans, collide here Saturday with Ole Miss a thoroughly scared favorite.

The cold reasoning of the odds-makers gave the Rebels a 10-point margin. But odds often crumble in this 51-year-old football rivalry, so heated it has ended in riots.

Arkansas has lost one game—to Texas, 13-12, last week. The Razorbacks were so impressive in that bruising scramble they took an upward step in The Associated Press national ranking, moving from 12th to No. 10.

Now, after glancing off Texas, the AP's third ranked team, the Porkers must deal with No. 4 on the list. And this year's Rebel squad may be the best in Ole Miss history.

If Ole Miss has a weakness it hasn't been noticed yet. The Rebels were unscathed on until Tulane jammed across a quick touchdown last week. The aroused Rebels then dismembered the Greenies, 53-7.

However, Arkansas' speed, power and deception, bolstered by quarterback Jim Monroe's bull-eye passing loom as an imposing barricade to Ole Miss bowl ambitions.

LSU Tries For Win No. 18 Against Erratic Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Louisiana State rides the crest of a 17-game winning streak and No. 1 national ranking into its football game against Florida Saturday afternoon.

The LSU Tigers are two-touchdown favorites to make it 18 straight and head toward their second national championship in a row.

They have the stars—Billy Cannon, all America halfback; Johnny Robinson, all Southeastern Conference halfback; Warren Rabb, all conference quarterback; Mickey Mangham, a strong two-way end who shines especially on defense; Bo Strange and Lynn LeBlanc, stellar tackles.

They have the depth — three teams under Coach Paul Dietzel's unique substitution system: The White team or first team; The Chinese Bandits as defensive specialists and the Go team as offensive specialists.

Florida started this season on a three-game winning streak against so-so opposition. But when the Gators got up against Rice, they were lucky to get a tie. And last week Vanderbilt upset Florida.

fense that seems to lack a scoring punch against top-flight opposition have marked Florida's efforts thus far.

Jack Jones has sparked at quarterback some of the time. Jack Westbrook has run well at halfback on occasion. Bob Milby has shown the full drive that made him the team's leading runner as a sophomore last year.

But the Gators haven't put these together with the kind of rugged line play they have shown the past three seasons.

Last year, at Baton Rouge, LSU had to come up with a field goal in the final quarter to beat Florida 10-7 and coach Dietzel said he expects to meet another inspired performance by Florida.

Florida Coach Bob Woodruff held secret workouts this week, hinting at lineup changes and some surprise plays. He said he would not announce his starting lineup until just before the game starts at 1:30 p.m. (CST).

LSU left Baton Rouge 37 strong Friday by plane and planned a light workout at Silver Springs, near Gainesville, during the afternoon.

Pro Grid Leads At Stake Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

First place in both the Eastern and Western Conferences of the National Football League will be at stake on Sunday. The New York Giants must overcome a Pittsburgh jinx to solidify their hold on the top place in the Eastern Division, while Green Bay, Baltimore and San Francisco will battle to hold the lead they share in the Western Conference.

The Steeles always show their best against the Giants, especially in Pittsburgh where the game will be played. Pittsburgh knocked New York out of the division title in 1957 at Forbes Field. Last year at Pitt Stadium, the Steelers won 21-10 and forced the Giants to win their five remaining games to clinch the Eastern championship.

Two of the teams involved in the triple tie for the Western Conference lead meet head on — the Green Bay Packers tangle with the champion Colts at Baltimore. The Chicago Bears play the 49ers in San Francisco.

In other contests, the Chicago Cardinals and Philadelphia Eagles play at Minneapolis to test that city as a possible pro football site, the Washington Redskins are at Cleveland against the Browns, and the winless Detroit Lions meet the Rams in Los Angeles.

Pittsburgh (2-2) and the Giants are quarterbacked by 12-year veterans Bobby Layne and Charlie Conerly, and the teams top the league in rushing defense. The Giants lead the NFL in passing and total offense, but the game is pick 'em as far as odds are concerned.

Baltimore, with Johnny Unitas' throwing arm as dangerous as ever, is a 13-point favorite over Green Bay. The Packers won three straight only to have Los Angeles murder them last week 45-6.

Philadelphia (2-2) is a one-point favorite over the Cardinals (1-3) in the game at Minneapolis. M. C. Reynolds will start at quarterback, replacing the injured King Hill for the Cardinals.

Cleveland (2-2) is favored by nine points over Washington, also 2-2, in a game that matches Jimmy Brown, the NFL's leading ground gainer, against the Redskins' Ralph Guglielmi, top passer in the league statistics-wise.

Los Angeles, with the dangerous Ollie Matson over a threat, is a 12-point favorite over Detroit, which has been bounced around twice by Baltimore, and once by San Francisco and Green Bay—the three Western leaders.

San Francisco, sparked by the

Greenies Skip Heavy Practice

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane skipped heavy workouts Friday and settled for a light limbering up drill without uniforms.

The Green Wave passed and did a little running in preparation for Saturday night's clash here with Georgia Tech.

Tulane is in good shape. The only man out is Billy Clements, starting left guard who hurt his knee last week against Mississippi.

Puerto Rican League Bows To Ford Frick

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The Puerto Rican League Friday bowed to baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and agreed to sign a contract binding the winter leagues with organized baseball.

Frick had given the local league five days to sign or face having players from the United States withdrawn from the competition.

A league official said the board of directors agreed the contract will not bring any change in the situation concerning native players, now active in the major leagues. Previously, fears had been expressed that the new contract would prevent some native players from participation here unless specifically permitted by their big league clubs.

Black Knight, Lions Play Northeast Here

Crucial Battle For Tribesmen

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Southeastern's Lions, spurred on by vaunted half-back C. J. Alexander, the Black Knight of Donaldsonville, clash with floundering Northeast tonight at Brown Stadium in a crucial Gulf States Conference encounter for the Indians.

With one GSC loss already hung around their necks, the Indians must win tonight to stay within sight of the conference championship. Kickoff time is slated for 8 p.m.

Northeast, getting off to one of its slowest starts in years, dropped the first three games of the season before finally cracking the win column against Arlington State, 26-21. Then McNeese followed with a 21-6 thumping last weekend in the Tribe's initial conference action.

Powered by Alexander, all-GSC and Mid-Bracket All-America last year, the Lions have fared somewhat better, breaking even in four contests. SLC opened with an 18-13 decision over GSC foe Southwestern, tumbled before East Texas State and Mississippi Southern and bounced back to beat Florence State, 28-21, last Saturday.

Alexander, in 55 carries this year, has gained 471 yards for an average of 8.4 per carry and 117 per game from the Lions' winged-T offense. The 192-pound senior ranks second among GSC scorers with 22 points.

Of the 812 net yards rushing the Lions have gained, Alexander has accounted for over 58 per cent of the total.

Elbert Harris, a long-distance thrower, will handle the SLC quarterback post. Although completing only 7 of 19 attempts Harris has thrown for 203 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Speedy fullback Jim Hanley has averaged 3.4 yards every time he carried the ball and halfbacks Willie Rhodes and Talmadge Lee average slightly over four yards. Lee, a freshman, scored SLC's first touchdown against Florence State last week.

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — I would like some help on a new color scheme for my kitchen. Cabinets are birch with tan tops. Tile is light tan with darker tan and white spots through it. What color do you suggest for walls, curtains, table and chair set?

A. — I would like tan walls and for a little different touch, a blue ceiling. Curtains could be white but I think draw curtains of natural split bamboo would be a really stylish note in your beige kitchen. Get a bronze toned kitchen set with blue or beige top and have the chairs covered in blue to match the ceiling.

Q. — Please advise me on decorating my living room. Carpeting is gray tweed with black and white speckles. There is a turquoise couch and blond end tables. I plan to add a sectional sofa, new draperies and paint the walls.

A. — Turquoise and olive green make a stunning color scheme that has a fresh new look. Pick a deep, drab olive for your new sectional and paint the walls, ceiling and woodwork a pale tone of this same color. For draperies get a dramatic print of black on white to pick up the theme of the rug. Use sharp turquoise accessories.

Q. — I plan to redecorate my 7-year-old son's room. He has several pieces of furniture which need painting: a small poster bed, an old-fashioned combination bookcase and desk, a wardrobe and night table. He also has a maple chest of drawers. I want to keep draperies and bedspread.

Dinner Party Given For The Barmores

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Terry of West Monroe entertained at a chicken spaghetti supper in their home on Tuesday night honoring Thomas Benton Barmore, Jr., Mrs. Barmore and their daughter, Peggy Sue. Mr. Barmore is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Barmore, of Archibald. He has just returned after completing a year's duty with the U. S. Army in Korea, and he and his family will leave later this month for his new assignment in Kansas City.

Guests present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Benton Barmore, Sr., Miss Maggie Ruth Barmore, Billy Barmore, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Barmore, Martha Barmore and Ray Barmore, all of Archibald, and Mr. and Mrs. Dock Lagrone of Mangham.

which match and are a white, black and red stripe on a beige ground. Walls, woodwork and floors also need doing.

Q. — Take your color scheme from the drapery print. Paint walls and woodwork beige, ceiling white. Use red cotton scatter rugs. Use black lacquer on all furniture and paint inside of bookcases beige of wall.

Q. — We have a Georgian style mahogany bedroom set with a four-poster bed. Rug is light gray. Woodwork is ivory and doors on double closet which occupies almost one wall are natural finished wood. What should I do with the walls and ceiling? What type of material and what colors do you suggest for canopy, bedspread and dust ruffle, lamp shades and a chair.

A. — A bronzy brown, gold and pale yellow scheme would set off your traditional mahogany furniture and yet blend well enough with the neutral gray rug. To make room look more modern paint woodwork and closet doors as well as walls a pale yellow. Dust ruffle on bed and new chair can be bronzy brown while the top spread and draperies might be deep, rich gold. Paint the ceiling gold, too. Lamp shades should be creamy white.

Answers To Questions On Natural Childbirth

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Any woman who is pregnant is certain, these days, to hear something of natural childbirth. Because this is not universally practiced, or even approved, she may get faulty ideas about it.

Grantly Dick Read, M.D., who died this last June, was largely responsible for the world-shaking idea that mothers do not need to suffer unbearably during childbirth. He believed that fears and tensions so altered the mother's capacity to bear a child that she made the process painful.

It would not seem that this idea would create such a furor in the medical world, but it has been many years since it was uttered and it is still not universally accepted, despite the experiences of countless women.

Natural childbirth does not mean that a suffering woman has to go through this experience without any help except her own dogged determination. Dr. Read himself used any method which he thought suitable to the individual patient. But he felt that if women could be convinced that there need be no unbearable pain, if they learned to breathe properly, to practice relaxation (just as good for anyone as for the pregnant woman, by the way), that they could go through the experience with a minimum of, or no sedation or drugs.

This is the wholesome way for baby and mother both — and allows her the precious privilege of bearing her child when awake and alert to the experience. Also, she should be acquainted with the various stages of labor, how she will feel and what she is to do to help herself.

Just this knowledge alone deprives the experience of frightening elements; just as we all feel better if we know what is happening to us and why.

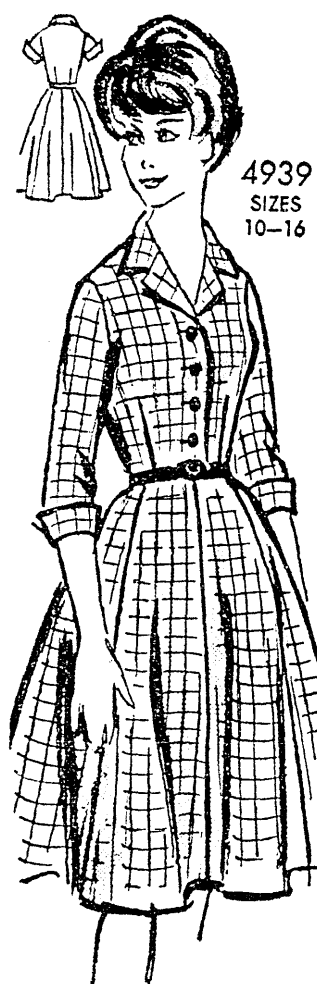

Along with these necessities for the mother, it is also considered advisable that some one person be present all during the mother's ordeal to help her and encourage her. This is one of the practical drawbacks to a more universal acceptance of this method. The mother-to-be needs attention and in crowded hospitals and with a shortage of nurses the handicap is obvious.

But husbands, who themselves have been educated about the various stages of birth, can be enormously helpful in the labor room until such time as more professional help is needed.

As with all new practices and ideas this is one at which some women scoff, wanting to be dragged and know nothing of what is happening to them. Medical men may distrust the idea because there have been some "bugs" in it. But more and more medical colleges are teaching natural childbirth. Probably well within our lifetime we may find, after it has been perfected and worked on by many, it will come to be considered the normal way to bring babies into the world.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Parents Do Sometimes Learn From Children

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: This is The Voice Of Experience talking. I hope "undecided 26" listens. If this girl thinks she's miserable because she's an "old maid" just let her marry a man she doesn't love and she'll find out what real misery is.

When I was 24 I was afraid I'd be an old maid, too. All my girl friends were married and the small town I lived in didn't have much to choose from in the beginning.

A construction crew came to town and one of the fellows asked for a date. I thought, "Gee, what a homely little shrimp" — but I accepted because he was better than nothing. I went out with him a few times and he proposed. I thought "Why not marry him? This may be my last chance." It didn't take long before I knew it was a mistake, but after the children came along I hated to do anything about it.

So I'm stuck with the homely little shrimp and he's about as much company as that tree out in the front yard. I know now if I had waited a few years I could have done better because I couldn't have done worse. — EXPERIENCED

Dear Experienced: So—0000-0. You could have done better—but you didn't. So stop belly-aching. He didn't drag you to the altar in chains, did he? Your major complaint seems to be that he's a "homely little shrimp." Did it ever occur to you that if he had had a choice he'd rather be a big, strapping, handsome guy?

Instead of whining about your poor selection, why not try to bring something to your marriage that will create a decent emotional climate for your children to grow in?

Dear Ann: My three-year-old grandson cannot speak very well. The doctor said this may be due to brain damage. But recently when cokes were being served, he was able to ask very clearly for beer.

When I expressed concern, my son brushed it aside by saying he and his wife had been giving the child an occasional bottle of beer since he was a year old, and it was good for him.

Am I wrong in thinking there may be some connection between the beer and the damage to his brain? — GRAMS

Dear Grams: An occasional drink of beer cannot result in brain damage. However, in most beer the alcoholic content is high enough to alter the personality of a child temporarily. In other words it could make him drunk. As for beer being good for a child—ask your doctor for his opinion.

Dear Ann: I'm 11 years old. I can't understand something about grown ups. Can you explain it?

Our parents always gossip about people in front of us kids. Before they say anything they start with "You kids aren't supposed to hear this." Then they go right ahead and say it.

Why do they say things in front of us we aren't supposed to hear?

YOUR BABY AND MINE
Answers To Questions
On Natural Childbirth

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Any woman who is pregnant is certain, these days, to hear something of natural childbirth. Because this is not universally practiced, or even approved, she may get faulty ideas about it.

Grantly Dick Read, M.D., who died this last June, was largely responsible for the world-shaking idea that mothers do not need to suffer unbearably during childbirth. He believed that fears and tensions so altered the mother's capacity to bear a child that she made the process painful.

It would not seem that this idea would create such a furor in the medical world, but it has been many years since it was uttered and it is still not universally accepted, despite the experiences of countless women.

Natural childbirth does not mean that a suffering woman has to go through this experience without any help except her own dogged determination. Dr. Read himself used any method which he thought suitable to the individual patient. But he felt that if women could be convinced that there need be no unbearable pain, if they learned to breathe properly, to practice relaxation (just as good for anyone as for the pregnant woman, by the way), that they could go through the experience with a minimum of, or no sedation or drugs.

This is the wholesome way for baby and mother both — and allows her the precious privilege of bearing her child when awake and alert to the experience.

Also, she should be acquainted with the various stages of labor, how she will feel and what she is to do to help herself.

Just this knowledge alone deprives the experience of frightening elements; just as we all feel better if we know what is happening to us and why.

Along with these necessities for the mother, it is also considered advisable that some one person be present all during the mother's ordeal to help her and encourage her. This is one of the practical drawbacks to a more universal acceptance of this method. The mother-to-be needs attention and in crowded hospitals and with a shortage of nurses the handicap is obvious.

But husbands, who themselves have been educated about the various stages of birth, can be enormously helpful in the labor room until such time as more professional help is needed.

As with all new practices and ideas this is one at which some women scoff, wanting to be drugged and know nothing of what is happening to them. Medical men may distrust the idea because there have been some "bugs" in it. But more and more medical colleges are teaching natural childbirth. Probably well within our lifetime we may find, after it has been perfected and worked on by many, it will come to be considered the normal way to bring babies into the world.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Broadway Grapevine
Steven Rockefeller's bride, the former Anne Marie Rasmussen, is doing volunteer work at Bellevue Hospital. . . . George Bernard, delightful and endearing member of the Bernard Brothers—one of the most famous of international cafe acts—suffered a stroke in Paris and is almost completely paralyzed. Plans are to fly him back to the United States within the next couple of days.

Ava Gardner is causing quite a stir in London, as usual. First of all she raged when the customs officers reminded her of an old law prohibiting her two dogs from entering the country without spending six months in quarantine. Ava vowed she'd only spend the night in England and fly out the next day, but two nights later she was still stomping around the Savoy. An English admirer sent her a gigantic bouquet of roses, but she refused to date him so he asked to have the flowers back and presented them to Lena Horne.

Insiders say Roberto Rossellini was giving Ingrid Bergman a hard time about their children because he owes her a fortune and isn't able to pay her back a dollar. In fact he's been trying to scrape up money for a new film he wants to make.

Oh, come on, now! The studio making "Story On Page One" is giving out the news that Clifford Odets had such a hard time keeping Tony Franciosa in one spot "in order not to spoil the effect of the scene," he actually nailed Tony's shoes to the floor.

Footnote on the untimely death of Errol Flynn: undoubtedly he committed a few sins rather publicly, but he wasn't mean or vicious. He had weaknesses, but he also had—conspicuously—the instincts of a gentleman, and those who knew him found him humorous and charming and nice. He was a ladies' man, but he had no gangster complex, and to those close to the current show biz scene, that's rather a sweet epithet. . . . Anthony Eden's friends describe him as "ill and crestfallen." They believe he still thinks the United States "sold him out" during the Suez crisis.

New York reporters might get a page one story if they'd delve into the statistics (presumably available at the Board of Education) regarding the health of Puerto Rican students as compared with pupils of other nationalities, with particular reference to tuberculosis.

Zillionaire J. Paul Getty has a new lady in his life—a Russian-born Parisienne, Marie Tessler. Chums say she adores Getty and remains on the qui vive for his appearances, although he doesn't always give her notice when he's about to spare some time for her. And she is philosophical about his continued friendship with Penelope Kilton, the English girl he was supposed to marry—but didn't.

The chauffeur of Billy Rose's Rolls Royce tangled with a policeman outside the Henry Miller Theatre the other night because he thought his car ought to be allowed to park where other autos couldn't. P. S.: New York's Finest won the debate.

Viewing the quiz show scandals in retrospect, the most preposterous factor—quite unbelievable, really—is the ghastly public relations job done by and for a smart fellow named Charles Van Doren. The dumbest flack hanging out at Lindy's could have figured out a way of handling Charlie's problem, never mind what a smart lawyer could have achieved (Mr. Van Doren ought to have put in a long-distance call to Lana Turner.)

Alan King thinks CBS is about to sign him for a film series with an idea by Nat Hiken and Phil Silvers as part owner and possible director. . . . Author Irwin Shaw figures to make close to half a million from the sale of "Two Weeks In Another Town" to MGM. . . . Perle Mesta is doing her autobiography for McGraw Hill. She'll title it "Call Me Perle." . . . Off-Broadway producers are ecstatic. Attendance at their theatres has hit an all-time high.

Mae West's current romance is—predictably—another muscle man, Paul Novak. . . . Those who remember when Gary Cooper took the trouble to travel to Washington to testify as an anti-Communist were surprised not only by his humorous attitude toward the "rigged" quiz shows but his announcement that he planned to go to Russia to "represent Hollywood." (Just what segment of Hollywood does Gary represent?)

Without benefit of Charles Van Doren, the NBC "Today" show was rigged this week when Kim Stanley and Horst Buchholz appeared and Jack Lescault read a digest of the "Cheri" notices that made it sound as if all the critics had raved about the show—which of course they hadn't.

The reviewers turned thumbs down on the play. Dave Garroway had the perfect cop-out while the flim-flam was going on—laryngitis.

Pretty Bull Safe At Last
SOLIHULL, England (UPI)—Brook Mandore, the bull whose cow-like conduct made him an official disgrace but a public hero, got away from it all Friday.

The owners of the animal, Mr. and Mrs. William Titcomb, announced they finally had sold him out from under the disapproving nose of the British Agriculture Ministry, which had ordered him executed or de-sexed.

The couple would not reveal the purchaser's identity but gave their assurances that "we have signed an agreement that makes Brook Mandore perfectly safe." They indicated the gentle, pretty-faced bull would spend the rest of

HELD FIVE DAYS

Ex-Convict Frees Girl Captive, 14

LYNDONVILLE, Vt. (UPI)—A tattooed ex-convict Friday freed a terrified 14-year-old baby sitter who told police he kidnapped her and held her a sex captive five days on pain of death.

As doctors examined husky, dark blonde Sharon Simmons of Nobleboro, Maine, and FBI agents questioned her, state police fanned out over the northern Vermont wilderness in search of her alleged abductor.

Rodney Austin, 44, of Newcastle, Maine, married and a father for the third time only last Monday, vowed he would not be captured alive, Sharon told police.

She said he told her before he left her at his brother Albert's house here early Friday that he had a gun "stashed away" in a camp at remote Lake Carmi.

The lake, only a few miles from the Canadian border in northwestern Vermont was one of the scenes in the ghastly kaleidoscope that flashed before her mind as she recounted her ordeal. "He was like a wildman," she said.

Yes, she remembered Lake Carmi, Sharon told Maine State Det.

Four Survive After Jumping From Planes

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Four men bailed out of two Oregon National Guard jet fighter planes that collided in blackness high over Mt. Hood Thursday night and all four survived.

One man was burned, one suffered an ankle fracture, and two were reported in good condition when found Friday. All are from Portland.

Lt. Jack D. Rayborn, one of the pilots, and Lt. Carson E. McDowell, his radar operator, were found in heavy timber east of Parkdale, a small community 20 miles south of Hood River on the mountain's eastern slope. They were in good condition.

Soon another group of searchers came on Lt. Winfred C. Vinton, pilot of the second plane. He was 15 miles away from where the first two men came down.

Vinton, although suffering from burns that came as the plane exploded, was walking along a trail.

The fourth man found was Maj. Roy A. Seilton, 42, radar observer for Vinton. He set off flares that brought searchers to him. He had a broken ankle.

Rayborn, the first located, was found quickly because shots he fired from a folding shotgun that was part of his plane's survival kit, brought rescuers.

his life, like Ferdinand, sniffing flowers in peaceful pasture.

British agriculture officials had ordered Brook Mandore stricken from the rolls of breeding bull-hood some time ago for fear he might transmit his effeminate qualities—pretty face, slim shoulders, bovine disposition—to his Ayshire offspring, thus ruining the breed.

The 14-month old bull quickly proved, however, that in a beauty and the beast showdown with the government, the public would select him winner.

While the Titcombs tried everything to get a reprieve for the bull, paying an $8.40 fine for every day that they kept him alive and potent, Brook Mandore acquired an international following.

In a nationwide television performance earlier this week, he won the hearts of 7,000,000 viewers by licking the commentator's hand, and hiding demurely behind Mrs. Titcomb's skirt.

Camille Carrier. That was where two men talked to Austin—two men who reported the incident to police Thursday.

Alert troopers also searched Mt. Stannard in north central Vermont where fresh car tracks were spotted on a little-used dirt road.

Sharon told Carrier Austin was "very drunk" when he knocked on the door at the Damariscotta Mills Maine, home where she was baby sitting Saturday night. An acquaintance of the Simmons family, he had spoken with the girl and her father earlier in the day.

He tried to lure her to his car on a pretext but she pushed against the door, pitting her strength against the burly ex-convict. He forced his way in, she said, and threatened to choke her as he threw her down on a bed.

Then he dragged her to his car, the girl said, and drove to an isolated area where he raped her twice, punching her in the mouth when she refused to undress.

For the next five days she said she remembered little except repeated assaults and a knife pressed against her ribs as a warning not to give him away when he bought gasoline or met strangers.

"You open your mouth and I'll kill you," he threatened once. "You keep quiet or I'll choke you to death," another warning.

At 1 a.m. Friday a 1959 sedan with Maine license plates stopped at the home of Albert Austin here. It was the end of the ordeal. Rodney roused his brother, visited briefly with his mother whom he had brought here only three weeks ago to spend the winter, and slipped away. Albert notified state police.

Sharon appeared unharmed and she told her captor's relatives nothing of the events of the past five days. Saving her story for the police.

ASKS RESUMED TALKS

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald Friday invited industry representatives to resume stalled steel contract negotiations Monday as a federal appeals court weighed arguments on a government injunction to force the striking steelworkers back to the mills.

But with no break in sight until at least early next week steel shortages caused the first major cutback in auto output this week. Auto production was slashed 16 per cent below the level of last week.

LIVING COSTS UP

The government reported that living costs climbed to an all-time high last month, with all major groups of goods and services except transportation. The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index edged up four-tenths of a point from August to September.

PROMISES SPEEDUP

The nation's Space Agency followed up President Eisenhower's disclosure Thursday that he plans to ask Congress for more space program funds by promising a "considerable" speedup in outer space exploration.

RETAIL ACTIVITY INCREASES

Retail trade activity this week increased from 1 to 5 per cent over the year-ago level on a nation wide basis despite depressed sales in strike-blighted areas. Best gains were registered in new passenger cars, clothing and furniture, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

QUARTER EARNINGS RISE

Texasco, Inc., reported earnings in the third quarter rose to $96,892,653 or $1.63 a share from $89,999,744 or $1.50 a share in the 1958 quarter. Directors also ordered a 60 cent extra plus a 2 per cent stock dividend in addition to the regular 60 cent quarterly disbursement.

Wheat Futures

Show Steady

CHICAGO (AP)— Foreign demand for bread grain steadied old crop wheat futures on the Board of Trade Friday.

Covering against sales of 3,733,

000 bushels of hard wheat to Brazil lifted the December, March and

season before profit-taking cut

distant wheat deliveries finished lower.

At the close wheat was 1/2 higher for 10 to 12 lower, December $2.00 a 5/16-10; corn 1/2 to 1/4 lower, December $1.09 1/4-1/2; oats 1/2 higher for 1/2 lower, December 7 1/2-1/4;

rye unchanged to 1/2 lower, December $1.35 1/2-1/4, and soybeans 1

1/4 to 1/2 higher, November $2.14

Wheat also was helped upward

by a Department of Agriculture authorization to the United Arab Republic, granting an additional $16,234,000 worth of wheat and wheat flour under Public Law 480.

The new authorization makes a total of $41,343,000 granted the

UAR for purchases of the bread grain and flour.

Advances in soybeans were attributed to overnight rains over-much of the Midwest, presaging

a further delay in harvesting, and a report that the government has authorized Spain to purchase 12,

000 tons of soybean meal under Public Law 480.

POLITICAL ROUND-UP

Candidates Stump In Southern Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of the 11 candidates for Louisiana governor stumped through the southern part of the state Friday, making promises ranging from more industry and better cooperation between cities and farms to keeping youth in government.

Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans said at Franklinton that many deficiencies which he had pointed out during his campaign are being corrected by the state administration. He added: "I am getting things done and I'm not even elected yet."

Morrison said he had a record of getting a lot done during his 14 years as mayor.

"That is why I tell the voters to look at what a candidate has done, not just what he says," Morrison said.

Former Gov. Jimmie Davis spoke in New Orleans at a meeting of Jefferson Parish business leaders. He said he would cooperate with the parish in solving its problems of better highways and an expressway "so you won't have to waste an entire day traveling from one place to another."

Calling for industrial development, Davis said it is necessary to create a favorable climate for industry in order to attract new payrolls and he promised to do it.

Former Gov. James A. Noe accused Davis of "skipping out on the state just when it needed him most."

Rites Held In Texas For Quints

TAYLOR, Tex. (AP)—The Hannan quintuplets were buried Friday in impressive Roman Catholic services known as the "Mass of the Angels."

Everything was white—symbolic of the innocence of the five tiny girls who lived less than a day.

The doll-size white caskets were lowered into separate graves on the breeze-swept church cemetery just outside this small central Texas city.

On each casket was a tiny spray of white flowers with the quint's names—Deborah Lynn, Janet Lee, Karen Denise, Melissa Jane and Suzanne Kay.

They were born at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital, San Antonio, Tuesday afternoon, the daughters of Lt. and Mrs. Charles G. Hannan, natives of this area.

The babies died within 18 hours. They were three months premature and too undeveloped to survive.

The father sat beside the caskets Friday morning, his head bowed in constant prayer. His wife is still in her San Antonio hospital bed.

Hannan showed the strain of the week. Occasionally he mumbled "thank you" to sympathizers. Frequently he wiped tears from his red, swollen eyes. The older son, Robert, 5, sat quietly beside his father. The younger, Pat, 4, fidgeted and asked questions.

News Blackout Descends On Group Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A virtual news blackout has descended on activities of the staff of the House subcommittee investigating the rigging of television quiz shows.

A reporter making a telephone inquiry to the subcommittee Friday was told by a secretary that the staff had been "ordered not to talk to the press."

She said the orders came from subcommittee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.).

Pressed for details of the order, the secretary said she couldn't amplify. However, she finally permitted the reporter to talk to Beverly Coleman, the subcommittee associate counsel. He denied Harris had issued any such order.

But he said, "Mr. Harris has indicated he doesn't want us to give interviews in which we express our opinions about what the subcommittee may do when the hearing resume."

The subcommittee reopens public hearings Nov. 2. It will take testimony then from Charles Van Doren, one of the first big money winners on the quiz show "Twenty One" which collapsed last year in the wake of fraud charges. Van Doren, who has denied any knowledge of the show being fixed, has been subpoenaed to testify.
